REVENGE NOTE CLUE IN SACK MYSTERY

Nearly seven months ago a man notified Boston police he was trailing a girl who had ruined his life—that he intended to murder her and disfigure her body.

Such an atrocity was committed in the case of the Cinderella hack-sack victim, whose dismembered legs and lower torso were found in two bundles in the harbor Monday.

Perhaps classifying the sack mystery as a vengeance murder, these startling disclosures came toward the end of another day of futile search for missing portions of the body—search spurred by the finding of a girl's clothing in a burlap bag on a Winthrop beach and by other promising clues.

Existence of the murder threat was learned exclusively by the Boston Evening American.

WRIT[illegible] EDUCATED

It was conveyed in an anonymous letter, written on the stationery of a Boston hotel and received at Boston police headquarters on March 9.

Its author was obviously a well-educated man.

He wrote in a coldly factual manner of the ruin of his life and his atrocious intentions which it appears, he carried out in the case

NEWTON WIFE DYING AFTER 50-FT. FALL

Ill with pneumonia, Mrs. Dorothy Austin, 34-year-old Newton Centre mother, left her home today, made her way to an observation tower in Needham Heights and plunged 50 feet to the ground.

She is dying at the Glover Memorial Hospital in Needham. How she fell, police said they were unable to determine, as they had no eyewitness' story and the woman herself is unconscious.

Mrs. Austin is the wife of James A. Austin of Oakwood terrace, Newton Centre. He is editor of the Textile World and was attending the convention of the New England Association of Cotton Manufacturers at Hotel Statler when informed of his wife's tragic plunge.

ON CARTER ESTATE

The tower from which Mrs. Austin dropped is called the Carleeta Park Observatory. It is on a hilly section of the William H. Carter estate in Highland avenue, Needham Heights and is open to the public.

The woman probably hit an iron fence encircling the tower when she landed, doctors and police said, but she landed on her feet. One leg was believed to have been broken and severe internal injuries were feared.

IN POOR HEALTH

Police learned at Austin's office that Mrs. Austin has been in poor health for several months and a short time ago pneumonia set in.

She was believed to be in her bed today, but the maid at the Austin home noted her mistress' absence at 8:30 a. m. A few moments later Needham police responded to a call that a woman had fallen from the tower.

The Austins have two children, Jeanne, 10, and Anthony, 8. Both were at school when the report was received. Austin later took them to his wife's bedside.

Morgenthau Ruling

'Only Government Bonds Are Safe'

(Special to American Newspapers, Inc.)

Washington, Oct. 7—What about American business and industry? What about new or existing enterprises seeking capital for construction or expansion? Is it really true that the New Deal and the United States Treasury will seek to continue to monopolize the money market?

These questions are being asked in Washington as the result of the startling pronouncement by Secretary of the Treasury Morganthau that government obligations are the only safe investment for trust funds!

The New Deal's money chief gave his unusual ruling in his capacity as chairman of the board of the $12,000,000 endowment fund of the Red Cross.

He gave it in a letter—the full text of which became available only today—that was written on May 29 to Howard J. Simons, secretary of the Red Cross board.

The letter reveals Morganthau rejects the suggestion that some Red Cros funds be invested in bond issues of two companies, which are regarded in Wall Street as prime investments.

It discloses he drove home his rejection in these words:

"Dear Mr. Simons:

"I am returning herewith copy of resolution of the board of trustees of the American National Red Cross endowment fund, which was enclosed with your letter of April 9, 1936, having indicated thereon my disapproval of the purchase of 125M Pacific Gas & Electric 3¾ per cent bonds of 1961 and 250M Southern California Edison 3¾ per cent of 1960 and my approval of the purchase of 45M U. S. Treasury 2¾ per cent for 1960-55. I have retained a copy of the resolution for my files.

"In recent months have been giving considerable thought to the safety of trust funds, and I have come to the conclusion that safety of principal is such a completely determining factor in connection with trust management that I feel I cannot indicate my approval for the purchase of any securities other than the direct obligations of the United States government or obligations of governmental organizations guaranteed by the United States government as to both principal and interest.

"I realize that this decision on my part may present complications for the board of trustees of the National Red Cross Endowment Fund, but I feel so strongly on this point that I cannot take any other action.

"Very Truly Yours,
"H. MORGENTHAU, JR."

ONE-WHEEL LANDING SAVES 2 FLIERS HERE

Two aviators escaped possible death today when they landed on one wheel at East Boston Airport after a tree had carried away part of their ship's undercarriage in taking off at the Mendon Airport.

Pilot Harris Farnstock brought the plane to the ground while airport attendants stood by with fire extinguishers and ambulances, ready for any emergency. With him was Paul Battilana, service manager of the intercity line.

Farnstock reported he averted a crash at Mendon by desperate maneuvering when the tree snapped off the left side of the undercarriage.

Arriving at the airport here, he circled the field until pilots and mechanics saw his plight. Then he came down at the edge of the field on the right wheel, shutting off his motor immediately to avoid fire in the case of a crash.

"Flying Swede" Hope Fails

Stockholm, Oct. 7 (INS)—A flurry of hope for the safety of Kurt Bjorkvall, Swedish flyer attempting to span the Atlantic, was dashed tonight when a report his plane had been sighted off the Norwegian coast proved upon investigation to be false.

A plane believed to be Bjorkvall's was sighted, according to a report in the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen, 40 miles south of Christiansand, Norway, flying east. Investigation disclosed the craft was not that of the ocean flyer, but one sent to look for him.

Bjorkvall, who took off from Floyd Bennett field in New York City at 7:34 a. m. (E.S.T.) yesterday, en route to Stockholm, was due tonight.

Lack of definite word of the aviator today caused some concern among his friends here. It was pointed out he should have been sighted over Ireland, Scotland or Germany hours ago, if he had been on schedule and flying low enough.

G. O. P. IN RHODE ISLAND LASHES NEW DEAL IN PLATFORM; CANDIDATES NAMED

Providence, R. I., Oct. 7—In contrast to yesterday's wrangling Democratic convention, Republicans of Rhode Island today harmoniously adopted a platform lashing the Roosevelt administration, and nominating an unopposed slate of candidates for state offices.

The keynoter was Herbert M. Sherwood, chairman of the convention. He denounced the Roosevelt administration and predicted a Republican sweep at the November elections.

The platform unanimously adopted scored President Roosevelt for usurping the powers of Congress, violating liberties of American citizens, displacing free enterprise with regulated monopoly, and flaunting the integrity and authority of the Supreme Court. It pledged "our allegiance to the fundamental principles of our government as expressed in the Constitution of the United States and in the Constitution of the State of Rhode Island.

SLATE OF CANDIDATES

The slate of candidates nominated was:

United States senator—Jesse H. Metcalf, renominated.

Governor — Former Assistant United States Attorney Charles P. Sisson.

Lieutenant-Governor—Eugene L. Jalbert, Woonsocket.

Attorney-General—Louis V. Jackvony, Providence.

Secretary of State—Judge James O. McManus.

Treasurer—Samuel C. Tourtellot, Scituate.

Congress—First district, Congressman Charles F. Risk; second district, Harry Sandager.

The platform pledged "good government within the Constitution," and lashed the Democratic administration of the state for the "notorious evil" of dual-office holding and the offering of jobs to legislators for votes.

METCALF LASHES REDS

It pledged turning gasoline taxes, now diverted for general use, back to the original purposes for which the taxes were created. Social Security legislation was approved, but the platform urged it be amended to iron out inequalities, and conform to "sounder financial policies."

Senator Metcalf defined the issues of the campaign as "Americanism against Communism."

Pledging the Republican Party to practice economy without being miserly to the needy, Senator Metcalf declared:

"We are living in a radical, a dangerous and artificial era which has been created by dreamers who hope we shall end in Communism. It is up to thinking Americans to put an end to the fallacies of these 'royal economists.'"

Dems Finish Up Tour of Western Part of State

By WILLIAM C. CONWAY

Northampton, Oct. 7—Members of the Democratic state ticket started from here today on the final lap of their three-day tour of key cities of western Massachusetts.

Prior to their departure a conference was held in which plans were discussed for meeting President Roosevelt when he visits Massachusetts October 20. All members of the ticket expressed pleasure at the news their party leader would include this state in his itinerary.

Leaving the city the members of the ticket predicted they would score large gains in western Massachusetts in the coming election, pointing to the fact they had addressed larger crowds than two years ago during the heated state campaign.

JAMES ROOSEVELT THERE

Accompanied by James Roosevelt, son of the President, the Democratic candidates for state and national office headed toward Springfield and planned to include Holyoke, Chicopee and Westfield in the day's program of rallies.

Largest crowds they have addressed to date were at rallies in this city, Turners Falls and Greenfield.

State Treasurer Hurley said he welcomed the opportunity to visit the home town of his gubernatorial opponent.

"Do not be misled by attempts to confuse the issue," State Treasurer Hurley said. "In many political campaigns in the past, a candidate with a weak public record has attempted to confuse the voters and his opponent by throwing out false or misleading issues.

"Such attempts have been made in the present contest."

HURLEY'S ATTACK

State Treasurer Hurley continued his attack of his opponent's legislative record and again charged that the G. O. P. candidate as a state senator failed to vote in favor of old age assistance legislation.

"I cite this public record of my opponent without malice," Hurley said. "The record is there. You are entitled to know all the facts, bearing in mind that Mr. Haigis now says, 'I will help the aged and infirm.'

Attorney-General Paul A. Dever announced today that he will make "startling charges" against his Republican opponent in a radio address to be delivered tonight from Springfield.

At the rallies in Greenfield, Turner Falls, Easthampton and this city, Dever again called upon his opponent to resign from the bench "if you desire to be a candidate for public office."

Women Rush to Register

The hand that rocks the cradle may rule at the polls in Boston if women keep on registering to vote at the same rate they have for the past 24 hours.

Election commissioners announced today that the total number of persons thus far registered for next month's election is 334,465 of whom 2739 signed up yesterday and last night.

But of the 2739, 1642 were women and 1097 men, or a proportion of about three women for every two men.

Hours for registering at City Hall annex are from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily and in the wards from 6 to 10 nightly. Persons may register up to 10 p. m. October 14.

The Senator

Roosevelt Rally A la Dubinsky

With a furtive, sneak-thief look on his usually bland and jolly countenance, the Senator slunk his hulk on top of a corner stool.

From his appearance, he had successfully pocketed the money, but did not feel too proud about robbing the widow.

THE SENATOR

Timmy slicked the bar, slapping it vigorously as the Senator communed with his conscience, and then, finding the unusual silence unbearable, he deftly shot the cheese bowl at the Senator and said:

"What seems to be gnawing at your gizzards now, Senator?"

"Maybe my gizzards will be better for a small but violent injection, Timmy." The Senator groaned. "Maybe I'm worrying about nothing at all. I think my eyes must be troubling me."

Timmy was all sympathetic ears.

"I would never of gone in there in the first place, Timmy. In fact, I would not have even played it to place and show, but I was hockeying past Tremont Temple, and when Lieutenant Tom Harvey, my old poddner, says it is a Roosevelt rally, I naturally mill in with the mob."

Many Absent

"Well, well," marvels Timmy. "There's nothing wrong with a Roosevelt rally."

"No, Timmy, but there must be something wrong with my poor old eyes. This Roosevelt rally was in Tremont Temple, but James Michael Curley, who has been carrying the banner for Roosevelt for years, did not appear. Hizzoner Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York did not appear. Congressman Arthur Healey did not appear."

"Maybe they are making daisy chains somewhere, or practicing up to be Swiss bell-ringers," Timmy suggests.

"I look around me, Timmy, and I can't find any Democrats at this Roosevelt rally. Then I know I have cataracts, so I grab a slightly smelly gentleman by the whiskers and wrestle him loose from his eye-glasses, which are pneumatic bound."

"You win the glasses, I trust, Senator?" Timmy queries, quaintly.

"I win the glasses, a handful of pinkish 'wire-whiskers,' and a wild-eyed look. Then I take a furtive look through the assembled Democracy, and I still can find no Democrats in sight."

"No Democrats at a Roosevelt rally?" Timmy said. "That's like no gin in a gin rickey, ain't it, Senator?"

Dubinsky There

"It is, Timmy. There is no member of the State Democratic ticket, or representative of any member. Joe McGrath, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, is not on hand. Maybe, Timmy, they were hiding behind Otis Hood, the Communist candidate for Governor who sat in the front row."

"Well, who is on hand, Senator?"

"David Dubinsky, the gentleman who dug up $5000 to promote the cause of Civil War in Spain—he is on hand, Timothy, and he puts a heated blast on Hearst and Wall Street, making me believe that Hearst is running for President, and Wall Street for Vice-President on the Republican ticket."

"Dubinsky?" says Timmy. "He must be a new statesman I haven't heard of before, like those fellows Tugwell and Ickes and Frankfurter. A new standard-bearer of democracy, a new Minsky to lead us out of the morass of depression."

"A new Messiah, Timmy." The Senator said in a reproving manner. "Farley is sleeping with persons now that he wouldn't talk to four years ago. Sidney Hillman, general president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was also an orator. In fact the needle trades were represented, and they were busy giving the needles to Landon.

"Was it patriotic, Senator?" Timmy asked.

"Very, my good friend. They played the Star Spangled Banner for a starter, and then they swung into an energetic and highly cultered cheer, which went this way:

"One, two, three, eight,
"Who do we ap-pree-shee-ate?
Roosevelt, Roosevelt, Roosevelt."

"My, my," said Timmy, "some of the great minds of the country were assembled, no doubt. And you didn't see anybody you knew."

"Timmy, I saw some gents I knew by sight. They used to make speeches on the Common of a Sunday afternoon. But, Timmy, I am not worrying about whom I saw."

"Then what is it that's gnawing your gizzards?"

"I'm hoping nobody saw me."

Old Age Pensions, Job Aid Pledged By Lodge, Jr.

By L. CONANT, JR.

The respect and allegiance of thousands of elderly citizens of this state was accorded to Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., today as a result of his militant and clear speech on social security.

Taking sharp issue with the methods of the New Deal, the Republican nominee for senator emphatically declared that he "favored an old age pension as generous as the wealth of our common country permits."

"I am fully aware," he said, "of the plight of the aged who through no fault of their own, but as a result of an economic system which has failed to recognize a fundamental duty which it owes to citizens, find themselves at an advanced age without means of supplying themselves with even the bare necessities of life.

"What then is the remedy for this situation?"

"We must provide security for the aged and we must provide means of support for our unemployed.

FAVORS LEISURE

"I favor leisure for the aged, who have certainly earned it—and opportunity for the young.

"Today this problem of economic security is not one that concerns a small part of our population. It is all embracing because the vast majority of people in the United States earn their living by working for others and are dependent upon a weekly wage."

Lodge's talk preceded tonight's whirlwind tour by all members of the state ticket of the five important suburban communities of Winchester, Woburn, Reading, Wakefield and Stoneham.

In Wakefield an automobile torchlight parade of more than a hundred cars will precede the meeting in the Town Hall.

Yesterday the state group was greeted with large and enthusiastic audiences in Topsfield and Palmer.

In his challenging speech on social security, Lodge voiced the ringing reminder that it "is a fundamental American principle that a man be permitted to prosper on his own individual merit."

RIGHT OF HAPPINESS

"We must not aim solely," he said, "at the security of special groups and neglect the security of all.

"The time has come when we must get away from the idea that all we can do for old people is to remove them from the world and give them a haven of refuge.

"It is our duty to see that they too shall have the right of happiness on earth by leaving them the right of independence, the right to live the balance of their lives in peace and comfort, and not to be dependent upon charity or relief.

ROOSEVELT ON WAY THURSDAY

Washington, Oct. 7 (INS)—President Roosevelt will leave at noon tomorrow for a whirlwind campaign tour of 11 states in the central areas, east and west—including Kansas, home state of his Republican opponent, Gov. Alfred M. Landon.

The states to be visited in the order named are Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

HAMILTON HITS DEAL'S LINK WITH REDS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Oct. 7 (INS)—John Hamilton, Republican National chairman, took a few shots at the "Communistic tendencies" of the Democratic party in an interview this afternoon and reiterated his firm belief that Governor Alfred M. Landon will be elected President.

"I am more confident today of a Republican victory in November than at any time since I came into the national political picture," said Hamilton.

"I stand on my previous statement that we will carry all the states north of the line of the Ohio River and east of the Mississippi River.

"I expect Governor Landon to get about 300 electoral votes."

A total of 266 electoral votes would win.

'LANDON TREND ON'

"We'll carry eight or ten states west of the Mississippi," Hamilton said when asked to comment on the prediction of Senator Key Pittman of Nevada that the G. O. P. would not carry a single state west of the Mississippi.

"We'll carry Kansas—certainly. My home paper, the Topeka State Journal, carried an offer of a $25,000 wager that Kansas4 would go Republican, and there were no takers."

Discussing the heavy registration for the coming election, Hamilton said:

"The increased registration in the past has meant dissatisfaction with the group in control."

He told of Democratic activities in this respect, saying he "saw them bringing in Works Progress Administration workers in trucks" when he was in Reno, Nev.

SEES OLD DANGER

He admitted the Republican Party was having difficulties raising money, saying the financial response was not up to his expectations.

"I feel definitely that the Landon trend is still on," he told the newspaper men at headquarters. "The decision to send President Roosevelt into Michigan is one indication that the Democrats realize that."

Yes, Hamilton was certain Landon would carry New York. Indiana? "Safe for the Republican party." Pennsylvania? "Not worried about it—we'll carry Pennsylvania."

The issue of Communism was brought up during this interview. Hamilton expressed the belief that "Roosevelt doesn't want to fight the Communists."

TUGWELL SCORED

Hamilton said it "would be very healthy" if President Roosevelt would call upon the naval and army intelligence sections to reveal some of the things they have learned about Communistic activities in the United States.

Asked if he thought there was real danger from Communists in this country, Hamilton replied:

"There is danger when an alien philosophy takes root in the country. I think many of the acts of the New Deal show there is an alien philosophy in it. How could it be otherwise with advisers such as Rexford Tugwell. Look at the type of book Tugwell wrote."

Hamilton admitted he had not discussed the Communistic issue with Governor Landon, saying the views he (Hamilton) expressed were his own views.

He said the Republican party is not paying for Al Smith's radio time.

Ex-Sen. Reed Flays U. S. Control Over Labor

(Special to American Newspapers, Inc.)

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 7—The principle that the hours and wages of labor should be regulated by the government was branded as a "false doctrine" by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, here.

In an address at Dickinson high school, under auspices of the National Jeffersonian Democrats, which he heads, Mr. Reed declared:

"I warn labor that the power to regulate wages up and hours down is the power to regulate wages down or to compel labor to work for a greater number of hours.

"When an employer is forbidden to give work for more than a given number of hours, labor is denied the right to work more than that given number of hours."

"If the government has the power of regulation, then its heavy hand may fall upon the working class, if I may use that term, and compel obedience to government dictation.

"That condition, indeed, at one time existed in England. It exists now in Russia, in Italy and in Germany."

SISTERS Tell About MURDER

FIANCEE DEATH IS UNSOLVED

Covington, Ky., Oct. 7 (AP)—The sisters of the slain Miss Frances Brady, 37, told a coroner's jury today for the first time publicly the story of the woman's mysterious slaying.

They testified after John J. O'Donnell, whom Frances had planned to marry today, had asserted he knew of no motive for the killing.

Judge Joseph Goodenough, attorney for O'Donnell and the sisters, called on the jury to make a thorough investigation, asserting "many tongues are wagging."

Ella Celline, first of the sisters to testify, told how she returned to her home about 1 a. m. Friday with Frances and Margaret. They had attended a party in Fort Thomas and placed their car in a garage a half-block from their residence.

"As we reached the door, Margaret, who had the key, tried to unlock it," she said. "I heard her say, 'this is funny, the key won't open the door.'

Shot Rang Out

"Fannie took the key. It did not seem to me that she had much difficulty turning the lock. She handed the key back to Margaret before stepping in.

"Fannie reached for the light switch, just inside the door, with her right hand and turned on the hall light.

"As the light went on, she screamed and then we heard the shot. All I saw was the flash of the gun and I could almost swear it came from the living room. Whoever fired the shot must have had the gun pointed at the door as Fannie opened it."

Margaret Brady corroborated her sister's testimony. Both said none of the sisters had any personal enemies. Both said they did not see the slayer flee.

Rewards offered for the apprehension of the killer were raised to $1500 when Col. Ben Stratman, head of the R. H. Manufacturing Co., of Cincinnati, where Frances Brady was employed, posted a $500 offer.

The Brady family physician, Dr. John G. Renaker, testified that the day after the shooting he found a mark over Ella Celline's left eye which he believed was caused by a grain of burned powder.

The jury recommended "further and continued investigation to determine the motive of the crime and to bring the murderer to justice."

Autumn Styles Win Judges

Fashion Congress Model

MISS ISABELLE GARDINER
Society Mannequin in Ermine

Clothes for autumn when you feel like making luncheon and "first nights" in town a dramatic event, featured today's session of the Fashion Congress in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

This being the season of football togs—and ermine, too—the lure of both daytime and formal fashions was widely stressed. Town tweeds in exotic weaves and colors vied for honors with exquisite evening wraps of choicest furs.

Mrs. Dana W. Leith of Dedham, smartly gowned society matron, headed the committee of socially prominent fashion jurors. "Autumn in Town" was the subject of the spirited fashion discussion which preceded the weekly luncheon.

Simple business frocks, cut with suavity and skill to meet the demands of a busy everyday life, won favor with the judges.

Assisting Mrs. Leith as fashion jurors were Mrs. O. H. P. Baldwin, Mrs. Charles Sewell, Mrs. Nelson Conant, Miss Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Kennedy Pope, Mrs. Joseph Barber, Mrs. Nelson Warner, Mrs. Raymond Langendach, Mrs. Alfred Wilde, Miss Jane Wilde and Miss Eleanor Leith.

The four attractive society girls who were chosen to act as mannequins during the luncheon were Miss Isabelle Gardiner, Miss Katherine Baker, Miss Betty Stone and Miss Ruth Edmands.

Photographs of the winning costumes—signposts to chic during the coming season—will be published daily in the fashion pages of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser.

JAIL Windup of 'GAG'

TOURS COUNTRY IN TUXEDO

Los Angeles, Oct. 7 (INS)—The two-week party which started in the Astor roof gardens in New York and ended in a jail cell here was all over today for Frank C. Saunders, 23-year-old New York stock and bond broker.

But he was still dressed for it.

Still spruce and neat in the tuxedo he wore across the continent "for a gag and a girl," Saunders calmly awaited trial Friday on a drunk charge.

He was minus his top hat and studs—"appropriated by some gentlemen," he explained—but looked dapper enough today, as he sat in his hotel room. The hotel room was paid for by an advance from kindly Judge Joseph Marchetti, who agreed to continue the case until Saunders had a chance to get in touch with relatives.

"I don't think I did anything wrong," the young New Yorker told the judge, "And if I can't prove my story you may be as severe as the law allows."

Saunders' story, in brief, is this:

His wife left him, so he called a few friends to his home in Park avenue, "to celebrate." The party proceeded to the Astor Roof, where some one dared him to cross the continent in his dinner clothes. With $1000 in his pocket, the young man went by plane, train and bus—"living from bar to bar." When he arrived in Los Angeles he met a girl who became worried about him and started to take him to a hotel in a taxi, but the taxi driver thought the police station would be a better place.

Wed 18 Months

"A tuxedo has its advantages when you are traveling," he insisted today. "It is much cooler and it doesn't get saggy and stick to you like ordinary clothes."

Saunders, once a student at Dublin University, Heidelberg and New York University, willingly enlarged on his tale.

"Mrs. Saunders went away," he said. "She was going to visit some friends in Connecticut and then, I think, back to her people in Bremen, Germany.

"We had been married 18 months, and when you've been living with a person 18 months you begin to get on each others' nerves. I don't know whether I was glad or sorry, so I called in the gang to help me celebrate, anyway.

"We began at my home and wound up at the Astor Roof. I sat looking at the bunch of nuts and I said to a girl, 'I'd like to go off on a real good tear.' She looked at me and said, 'Why don't you do something spectacular?' I thought awhile, then I said, 'I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going all the way to Los Angeles, stewed, in a tuxedo."

He said they went to see him off at the Newark airport, from where he flew to Chicago. There he stayed at his fraternity house, the Alpha Kappa Psi. He then rode a train to Salt Lake City and a bus from there to Los Angeles—"stopping at bars en route."

Farmers are crying for help but can't get it. Twenty-five and thirty dollars a month jobs do not appeal to the laborers of today. And why should they? It's too easy to get on the relief rolls. And do nothing.

EMPLOYMENT AGENCY HERE REPORTS ACUTE LACK

Easy money from the federal government and local welfare departments has stripped New England of farm workers, it was declared today by Maurice E. Finn, one of this section's largest labor agents.

In the nearly half century since his father, the late Simon Finn, started Finn's Labor Agency at 27 Washington street, north, there has never been such a shortage of farm workers in this corner of the country the son revealed.

He blamed the New Deal's lavish spending of money on projects which entail least work for the most wages, and the local welfare agencies whose relief rolls it is easy to attain.

Shortage Noted

The shortage has been most noted in the past two years, the labor agent declared, job after job remaining open when men making inquiries learned that the regular farm wages did not reach the amount of relief they were getting or the amount of wages paid for only a part of the time worked.

"My father opened this agency in 1883," said Finn, "and I have been in charge since 1901.

"We have always been able to get farm help to satisfy the demand at the moderate wages that the farmers have been paying for the past 40 years and more.

"In the last two years, however, the men refuse to work on farms because they are getting more money on relief or from the federal agencies.

"Throughout the years, our biggest source of supply for farm labor has been from the non-citizen classification.

"Today, however, practically every non-citizen who desires to be is on welfare, except for the few who have not learned yet how to get on welfare.

"If a non-citizen does not know how to get on the relief rolls, some other non-citizen already on the rolls soon advises him as to the easy method and he, too, is soon receiving relief money and sits back rather than take an honest job.

"Also the Works Progress Administration and the other relief works programs are giving the men jobs in which they make more in four days than they can earn on the farm in a full week."

Midwest Farms Need Harvest Aid

Special to American Newspapers, Inc.

Chicago, Oct. 7—While nearly a million men are employed on Works Progress Administration projects in 13 Mid-West states, a survey today showed an acute shortage of farm labor for fall planting, corn husking and other late seasonal tasks.

Both state and private employment agencies in Chicago, Minneapolis, Des Moines, St. Louis, Indianapolis and other cities reported an influx of calls for farm help at wages considerably higher than since 1929. All reported there were "no takers," and agreed:

"The lure of federal 'easy money' jobs is to be blamed."

William Thiem, vice-president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, said:

"Scores of Illinois farmers tell me their plight is pitiful because they cannot hire men even at wages as high as they were in boom times."

1 Killed, 3 Hurt In Bradford Crash

Haverhill, Oct. 7—One man was killed, three severely injured today when their small sedan collided head-on with a truck in Salem street, Bradford.

Nicholas Billis, 48, of Main street, Groveland, died at Gale Hospital from a fractured skull and other injuries an hour after being taken from the wreckage.

Injured were Ernest Girrior, 58, of Church street, West Newbury, his son, Herbert, 22, and Stephen Cappola, 38, of River street, Haverhill.

Fishermen, Pals All Life, Die Together

New Bedford, Oct. 7—Through nearly four-score years Captain Charles Shockley and Charles Manchester had shared their joys, their sorrows, their hopes and their disappointments—and when death came, they shared that, too, locked in each others arms.

This was the picture of tragedy drawn today by Dr. William Rosen, medical examiner, in connection with the deaths of Captain Shockley, 78, noted whaling skipper, and his companion, Manchester, 79, whose bodies were found yesterday in their drifting skiff.

Both men had gone fishing in the skiff Monday, as inseparable in their last venture as they had been through a lifelong friendship.

Following an autopsy today, Dr. Rosen declared that Manchester had died from heart disease.

The body of Captain Shockley was lost when scallop fishermen attempted to lift it from the skiff into their motorboat.

REDS ARREST NOTED WRITER

Moscow, Oct. 7 (AP)—Karl Radek, commentator for the government newspaper Izvestia, was arrested today on charges of being implicated in the counter-revolutionary plot for which 16 Russians were shot last August.

Radek, one of the best-known Russian editorial writers, was one of five men under investigation in an alleged plot to overthrow the government and kill Dictator Joseph Stalin.

His name was announced by Prosecutor Andrey Vishinsky at the trial of the 16 confessed plotters Aug. 21.

GIRL'S CLOTHES IN BURLAP SACK NEW MYSTERY CLUE

now baffling the dest resources of the department.

"I am hunting for her and I will find her if it takes the rest of my life. When I find her I will take her life and disfigure her in a manned you will recognise. I will dismember her and with pari of her body leave a sign that will be readable and easily understood."

That is not an exact but an appropriate quotation from the letter.

MET AT HOTEL PARTY

The letter stated that the writer some time previously had made the acquaintance of an attractive girl at a party in the hotel from which he wrote. Their friendship had deepened into love on his part, perhaps merely an infatuation on hers. His ruin, he claimed, was the culmination of the romance.

He wrote that he had temporarily lost track of the girl but that finding her had become the one remaining ambition of his life—finding her, slaying her, disfiguring her in death. In substance he wrote:

"You might think this the raving of a man out of his mind but it is quite the contrary. At least she will never do to another what she did to me."

The letter reached Deputy Superintendent James R. Claflin after it passed through several hands at headquarters.

Claflin turned it over to Detective Joseph Dekker of the hotel squad who, in turn, assigned Detectives Sergeant William Crowley and Stanley Slack to investigate. A copy was sent to Captain Thomas Towle, of the Milk street division, since retired.

HANDWRITING CHECK FAILS

Detective Slack went to the hotel whose stationery was used and discussed the letter with the manager. The latter identified the stationery as havin been made available to guests on March 1, but a cursory check of the register brought to light no handwriting that could be positively identified as that of the letter-writer.

Headquarters files and those of the Milk street division to which a copy was sent, were being searched today for the letter. Detective Sergeant Arthur M. Tiernan was placed in charge of this angle of the probe; Slack was summoned to headquarters.

PROBE FOR IDENTITY

The main probe swung on the new angle while harbor police sought the missing remains, detectives the identity of th eslain Cinderella who had tiny "dancer's feet."

Most promising of other clues was the finding of a girl's clothing in a burlap sack on Point Shirley beach, near Shirley Gut, Winthrop. A brown skirt that may have been the victim's wa found and the burlap was similar to that in which the victim's legs were wrapped in two grim bundles taken from the harbor off the airport in East Boston two days ago.

Because of the use of burlap the the discovery took on unsual significance.

BUS DRIVER'S FIND

The find was made by Charles Wheaton of Triton avenue, Winthrop, bus driver for the Narrow Gauge railroad on the Point Shirley run.

About 10 days or two weeks ago he first came upon the bag tossed up by the tide, still wet. He opened it and found the skirt, stepins, slip, girdle, a green and gray sweater and a girl's brown soft felt hat. These articles he stretched out the sand above high water mark to dry and did not think of them again until today, the publicity attending the harbor mystery, bringing the find to his mind.

He went again to the beach, but could find only the skirt and the bag. These he turned ove to Winthrop police, who sent them to Boston. The other articles had apparently been washed away by extremely high tides since prevalent.

"E" HANDKERCHIEF

A widespread search was then instituted, and near the spot were found a girl's handkerchief initialed "E," pink and white and embroidered. Nearby was also picked up an imitation jade dog pin. The dog had a black nose, red tongue, white eyes.

Authorities entertained great hopes that somebody might recognize one or more of these articles. The place where they were found is about two miles from where the legs were found, a stone's throw from the spot where remains of Susan Geary were picked up in the similar mystery of 1905.

Two sheets, one bearing stains, also found on the beach, were sent to Boston.

DRAG WATERS

Dragging was begun in the waters between the Warren avenue, Charlestown, bridge, and the North Station yards as a result of a report made by William A. Wicks of Lawndale street, Belmont, that last Sunday afternoon while in a motorboat there he saw a large bag that appeared to be made of canvas on the surface. It was pushed aside by the wash of the motorboat and he did not think of it again until today.

Captain John F. McCarthy of the homicide squad, reporting personally to Commissioner McSweeney on every development in the case, went to Brookline and there interviewed a doctor who a week ago reported to police that a girl employed in his home had disappeared. A complete description of this girl was obtained for checking with the victim.

RACE AGAINST TIME

The harbor search for the remaining portions of the body—believed weighted down because they have not been found—is a race against time, Medical Examiner Dr. William J. Brickley said. Unless they are soon found scavengers may dispose of them, he said.

Dr. Brickley said he believed the tiny "dancer's feet" that fitted a size three shoe and the burlap in which the legs were sewed were the best clues.

WOMAN GIVES CLUE

One of the most promising clues being checked was the report of a woman resident of the Jeffries Point section of East Boston, close to where the first leg was recovered, that on a night two weeks ago she watched "suspicious" activities of two automobiles near her house.

They parked nearby, a large car and a small sedan and she thought "bundles" were being transferred from one machine to the other.

Police believe the severed remains of the victim may have been tossed into the harbor from the Jeffries Point section.

Other clues in the mystery sent detectives into South Boston, South End and Somerville checking recent disappearances of three young women.

Harbor police searching for the missing head, arms and torso of the hack-sack victim this morning, picked up a suitcase containing two blank checks on a Portland bank.

Also taken from the waters off Commercial Wharf was a small back and hip brace, apparently quite new. Neither the suitcase nor the brace appeared to be important to the mystery.

Plans are crystalizing for the use of a diver to explore the harbor bottom between the airport and Governor's Island, and Fred Wallace, Somerville diver, whose father found the head of Susan Geary, will probably make the descent.

Moulage casts of the victim's extremely small "dancer's feet" were ordered by Dr. Brickley, who awaited from Harvard Medical School confirmation of his tentative opinion that she was murdered instead of dying after illegal surgery.

Twine, burlap and window shade experts continued to assist the police check of positive clues.

Added to the negative clues was the report of Deer Island guards and fishermen that they had seen what appeared to be a torso floating off the island at dusk last night.

'TORSO' PROVES DOG

The "torso" was found today and proved to be a dog.

Theatrical booking agencies were asked to cooperate in providing a list of dancers who wear an approximate size 3 shoe and who have recently left or vanished from this vicinity.

Meanwhile the mysterious disappearance of a South End young woman more than a month ago was revealed to the Boston Evening American today.

Circumstances surrounding the case indicate the possibility that the missing young woman may have been slain and her body dismembered.

According to the information the woman had been married but was estranged from her husband and had been going out with a young man, said to be a chef.

The couple left the house where they were living in the South End last September 2 and have not been seen since.

Just before her disappearance, the young woman had confided to her landlady that she was in a delicate condition.

GULLS CIRCLE BUNDLE

The girl was living on a monthly income provided in the will of her father and had just received her check when she disappeared.

The description of the missing South End girl is similar to that which Medical Examiner Brickley presented after a statistical study of weight and size relations of the two legs found in the harbor.

The missing girl is about 25 years of age, brunettte and good looking, weighed about 120 pounds and was a little more than five feet in height.

The South Boston woman, also married, whose whereabouts detectives sought, vanished about 12 days ago.

ANONYMOUS LETTER

An anonymous letter suggesting that a Somerville girl might be the victim sent police to her home, where she was found.

Twop otato bags identical with the one which contained one leg were obtained from a Chelsea wholesaler today by Detective Sergeant James V. Crowley. The dealer said that a month ago he supplied some of these bags to two ships now in the harbor and Crowley will visit these ships.

Use of infra-red rays on one section of the other burlap brought out letters NF CW AP NEP, apparently done in crayon. These may be of importance later.

EXAMINE BURLAP

Second examination of the burlap wrapping and the potato sack today by Donald McMasters, president of Star Towel Co., Medford, showed definitely that the burlap wrapping was used to cover meat in shipment. Black, torn holes in the bag were identified as skewer holes.

McMasters told police that the burlap wrapping is the same type used by a large chain store system here. It came originally from the chain store warehouse and was distributed in East Boston and vicinity.

Police are now checking stores of this chain in East Boston, in hopes of learning of some employe who has left recently.

Moulage casts of the feet to a point six inches above the ankle will be made by Patrolmen George Smith and William Payne of the headquarters ballistics department. These will result in the taking of what approximates a fingerprint, the casting bringing out every ridge and vein and sometimes tiny scars not visible on the original.

Two-strand sisal 'twine, five-strand jute twine, one burlap potato bag that had been laundered, one section of burlap that had been used by a wholesale meat concern, occupied the attention of detectives, chemists and civilian experts.

CURTAIN MAY BE CLUE

Investigators are manifesting considerable interest in the section of green sash curtain, which was wrapped about one of the legs which was found.

It was pointed out that the curtain was of unusual type and size and might be traced more easily than the ordinary curtain.

Manufacturers and retail stores will be checked in an effort to learn whether curtains of that type had been purchased recently.

It was believed this might lead to the fiend who dissected the body or at least provide police with an idea of the locale of the crime.

Checkup was continued at police headquarters on a list of 300 missing young women, and inspectors were being sent out to the various addresses to determine whether the girls had returned home without notifying police.

Considerable interest was also being manifested by investigators in the report of William Ross, head of the missing persons bureau, concerning the visit of a man there on Monday shortly before the first hacked leg was found.

The visitor, a well-dressed man according to Ross, made inquiries concerning a brunette girl, whom he described as five feet two inches in height and weighing 125 pounds.

Ross said the man declined to give his name or that of the young woman, who, he declared, was a maid in his home, and left, apparently disturbed, when informed the department had no information on such a missing woman.

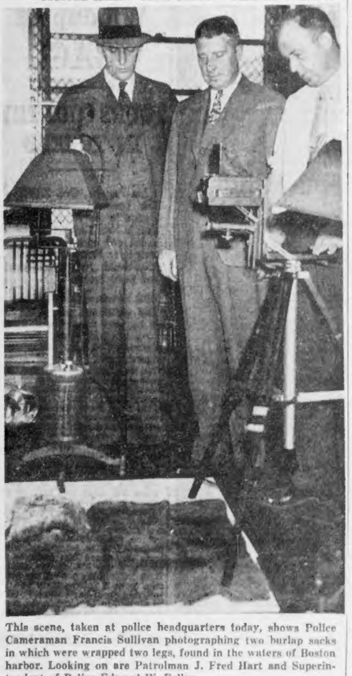
Relation of weight and size of the legs with the rest of the body established her height at five feet, two inches and her weight at approximately 118 pounds.

X-ray examination of the two severed legs indicated from the bone structure the woman had stopped growing and was therefore at least 25 years of age and the condition of the joints proved she was not more than 40.

Clues Checked in Cinderella Hack-Sack Mystery

Moulage casts of the hack-sack victim's feet have been ordered by Dr. William J. Brickley, medical examiner. Here's William Paine and George Smith working in the ballistics department at Boston Police headquarters where moulds of the feet, such as the one shown, will be examined.

OFFICER HART SUPT. FALLON FRANCIS SULLIVAN



This scene, taken at police headquarters today, shows Police Cameraman Francis Sullivan photographing two burlap sacks in which were wrapped two legs, found in the waters of Boston harbor. Looking on are Patrolman J. Fred Hart and Superintendent of Police Edward W. Fallon.

Harvard Graduate Wounded During Fighting in Spain

London, Oct. 7 (AP)—A Reuter (British) News Agency dispatch from San Martin de Valdeiglesias, Spain, today said Arthur Menken, American photographer, had been wounded in the fighting at the village of Adrara, west of San Martin.

New York, Oct. 7 (AP)—A cablegram was received today by Paramount News from Arthur Menken, news reel photographer, who said he had been wounded yesterday and is now in a military hospital at Arenas De San Pedro Menken is 30 years old, a Harvard graduate and the son of S. Stanwood Menken, socially prominent New Yorker. He became a photographer several years ago.

"Slightly hurt," the cablegram read, "yesterday. Nobody worried. Flesh wound. In a military hospital, Arenas."

Menken regarded as one of Paramount's ace photographers, recently procured the release of John Dored, a colleague, who was held prisoner by the Fascists at Caceres. He covered the Italian invasion of Ethiopia, and on his return to the United States was sent to British Guiana, South America, with an expedition.

He was with the rebel forces when they captured Toledo and hurt his hand at that time when a falling stone hit it.

Rebels Start 'Final' Attack on Madrid

Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press

Burgos, Spain, Oct. 7—Under cover of a withering artillery barrage, insurgent divisions on the snake-like western front hammered at Madrid today in the "final, decisive" attack on the capital.

With a spear-head driven to within 20 miles of the city on the southwestern front, General Francisco Franco's regulars began pinching off a 50-mile sector from Navalperal De Pinares, Northwest of Madrid, to Torrejon, 16 miles southwest of the capital on the Toledo highroad.

Reds Fight Bitterly; New Drive on Madrid

Madrid, Oct. 7—Shivering Socialist defenders fought bitterly today to block a concerted drive by Fascist insurgents along crumbling lines west of Madrid.

Blue with cold, the harassed government troops engaged insurgents in vicious encounters unaware of a Fascist artillery flanking movement south of Navalperal which might squeeze them between two attacking forces.

TODAY

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

Even in sports, which, according to evolutionists, the human race enjoyed, hopping from limb to limb before it came down from trees, thought is the important thing.

Mr. Hal Schumacher, who won the baseball game for the Giants and kept them in the series on Monday, confirms it. The good looking young American who can "pitch fast ones" when he likes, informs ambitious baseball players, and the big crowds that only sit and look, that he beat the Yankees not with speed or strength, but with his curves.

Young gentlemen will observe that "baseball curves" are the result of thought. Mere speed comes from muscle.

Professor William James understood the human animal, knew that love of fighting is part of his still barbarous personality, and suggested occupations that might gratify man's combative instinct without war. Now Arthur Hays Sulzberger's editorial page suggests that the fireman's job might keep men happy without machine gun or hand grenade, merely fighting fire.

Fire-proofing will eventually abolish fire fighting, and, more important, as men escape from their present cave-man complex and become intellectual beings, they will find their great excitement in intellectual warfare, not in cutting off each other's head or legs.

The exciting triumph enjoyed by Newton, when he saw that his calculations on gravitation were coming out correctly, or by Copernicus, when, on his deathbed, they handed him his great work on the construction of the universe, was far beyond the triumph of comprehension of any murderous Alexander, Caesar or Napoleon.

Statistics and forecasters show that in the coming year, in the United States, 110,000 will be killed by accidents, a majority of them unnecessarily, including most of the 40,000 deaths that will be caused by accidents in the homes, falling downstairs, slipping in bath tubs, etc.

In addition there will be nine and a half million injuries not fatal. We are a careless people, even when we do not get drunk and race automobiles along the highways, and our needless accidents alone cost the nation one billion dollars a year.

Earnest men demand more radio hours devoted to "educational and cultural programs." It must be remembered that, as you can lead a horse to water, but cannot make him drink, so you can broadcast "education and culture," but you cannot make the public tune in.

Let educators and friends of culture produce broadcasts that the people will want to hear and they will have no difficulty in getting time on the radio; sponsors will be glad to pay for it.

The radio educator and the clergyman have the same problem; they must make their intellectual wares interesting.

Again, it may be mentioned that Henry Ward Beecher knew no difficulty in filling his church. He once put a good-looking young mulatto girl in his pulpit and went through the form of selling her at public auction to express what he thought of slavery. His church was full.

The Reverend Spurgeon, in England, made his congregation gasp when he climbed over the railing of his pulpit and down the outside to show how sinners would go down to hell. His church was crowded. Moody and Sankey did it with hymns, Billy Sunday with gestures, intense conviction, threats and a sawdust trail. There is a way, but it must be found.

Major Lester D. Gardner, who flew to Moscow, 5000 miles, in sixty-eight hours, fifty-two minutes, flying time, will inspect Russia's central aviation institute in one day, then fly to Berlin for an aviation meeting.

Major Gardiner might well spend more than one day in Russia, where new ideas are developed in the way of attack and defense. It would be worth his while to see in Russian mock-war one hundred soldiers, each with his light machine gun, coming down together by parachute, on the theory that they would land behind the enemy's line, to open machine gun fire from the rear.

Major Gardner might also be interested in the Russian plan to build a navy bigger than any existing navy, to match the Russian army, bigger than any other standing army.

A highly intelligent young woman, Mrs. Lucy Connell Moore, only 22 years old, from Florida, is admitted to practice in the United States Supreme Court.

Such an achievement deserves high praise.

GLOBE CIRCLER ARRIVES IN PALESTINE

Dorothy Kilgallen, modern Nellie Bly, remains confident she will finish first in the race around the world.

Though Ekins, at Karachi, India, is some 2000 miles ahead of Miss Kilgallen and Kieran, all three must make the final lap across the Pacific to San Francisco aboard the Pan-American Airways' new China Clipper.

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Copyright, 1936, by International News Service, New York Evening Journal and Boston Evening American.

Gaza, Palestine, Oct. 7 (INS)—The wheels of time have turned with almost invisible slowness here for many centuries, but I zipped through Gaza, just another milk station on the way around the world, so fast today that it must have made even Samson turn a whisker.

I spent exactly an hour and a half in the Holy Land, swinging down from Alexandria on to the Asiatic continent at 8:20 a. m. (1:20 a. m. New York time) and was off for Rutbah Wells, which I hope the pilot can find, at 9:50.

We made the stirring trip from Africa in four hours, 20 minutes—a two-continent hop with an amazing diversity of scenery.

WATCH SUN RISING

The rising sun lifted the mists over the delta of the Nile, reputed to be the world's most fertile soil, and for an hour we soared over its many wide mouths where fellahs labored in green patches on the black soil.

Then from this rich deposit of mother Nile, we sailed suddenly over the bleakest desert imaginable, endless miles of sand to the right and the dazzling Mediterranean on the left, until we sighted below us a narrow greenish-blue ribbon rolling away to the south.

"Suez Canal!" shouted our pilot (handsome Englishman.) "Lifeline of empire, and all that."

So we did a Moses and exodused ourselves out of Egypt to the promised land, breakfast in Gaza. Over more desert, spotted with tiny villages, and above the railroad, Leo Kieran and I worked on the crossword puzzle in a London newspaper, but it was a tough one. Maybe we'll get it finished, though, before we get to San Francisco.

SAMSON'S SPOT

Gaza is the spot where Samson "took hold of the two middle pillars upon which the house stood . . . And he bowed himself with all his might . . . And the house fell."

Well, Gaza hasn't got over it.

Or maybe those ruins can be attributed not to Samson, but to the three big battles fought here during the World War, when it was bombed and blasted and half the population chased out.

Now it's a hamlet of deserted white houses, and dirty, crooked streets, surrounded by sand dunes.

It figured in history as long ago as 1500 B. C. when Thutmose III grabbed it. Alexander the Great fought for it and won it. So did Napoleon Bonaparte.

OFF FOR ASIA

Snatching at every possible minute to make up for the hours we lost back in Italy, the sleepless British Imperial Airways roused me in my Alexandria hotel room an hour before scheduled time today and scooted me off for western Asia at 7 a. m.

It was still pitch black as we drove through the mysterious and deserted streets of Alexandria, the headlights of our car the only gleam (now I know why they call it the dark continent!), to the airport, and as I stepped off African soil into the big plane my New York time watch said Broadway was just getting started—at 8 p. m.

The time there may be so brief that I may be practically "eyeless in Gaza," but I'll have as many mouths as the Nile.

Lunch looms in Rutbah Wells which is some kind of a water hole out in the middle of the Syrian desert—hope we don't get stuck there! And the pilot is promising dinner at Bagdad, where we'll spend another night and I may be able to do a bit of Haroun Al Raschid stuff.

ON EAT-TABLE

Seems Imperial Airways doesn't go on a time-table, but on an eat-table, and one can almost hear the announcer bellowing: "The next plane for breakfast leaves at so-and-so . . . due in Rutbah Wells at lunch time!"

Leo Kieran was right along with me as I handed this dispatch to a bearded messenger "boy" and stepped into the air liner. He and I are still a tie for second in the triple race around the world, even though I scored a big foreign coup yesterday and left him without a single piastre.

I bought up all the Egyptian money at the hotel before he got there, but I staked him to a trip around Alexandria.

DEAL'S COTTON POLICY SCORED

JAPANESE QUOTA URGED

The Roosevelt administration was roundly scored today for its policy in not protecting the American cotton industry from growing Japanese competition.

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers in Copley Plaza Hotel, Frank L. Neild, president of the association, charged also that protest made to Washington met "with very little result."

Russell T. Fisher, secretary of the association, declared that the Roosevelt administration sought through the Soil Conservation Act to "secure similar results" to the invalidated Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Fisher further added that the administration sought to control the cotton crop through the Soil Conservation Act.

COMPARED TO FLOOD

In his address Neild comparing Japanese imports to a flood which "starts from very small trickles and grows until tremendous damage is done," declared:

"In the case of Japanese exports of textiles to this country, we have watched them grow from almost nothing three or four years ago to millions of yards a month and they are still growing.

"The Japanese have concentrated on a few items but are constantly expanding the number of kinds of fabric to be exported, and at present we can see no end to this expansion of their exports.

IMPORT QUOTA URGED

"We have protested to Washington with very little result. In fact we have been told repeatedly that the total is too small to bother with.

"The only sound way to head off this threat to American employment and American business is to establish quotas for all imports coming from countries like Japan with such extremely low wage and living standards.

"It is high time we had flood control on imports before the damage is done rather than afterward."

Secretary Fisher, in his report, deplored the increasing Japanese imports and declared the 42 per cent duty increase on countable cloths imposed by President Roosevelt has given the cotton industry "little if any relief."

Fisher estimated the 42 per cent rate increased the tariff rates of certain types of cloths only from 25.05 per cent to 35.89 per cent.

COMMITTEE REPORT

The cotton committee report stated:

"It augurs well for the future to see the government withdrawing from the cotton business and allowing the crop to be marketed through its natural economic channels—uncertainties, waste and price manipulation brought many hardships to our industry."

This report, headed by Chairman Amory Coolidge, also stated the government still holds approximately three million bales of cotton and expressed the hope the government "will dispose of a substantial part of those holdings during the current year."

Austrian Youths' Chief Seeks Duels

Berlin, Oct. 7 (INS)—Major Emil Fey, leader of the Vienna heimwehr and bitter foe of Prince Ernst Rudiger Von Starhemberg, Austrian vice chancellor, has challenged the prince and one of his aides, Count Thurn Valsassina, to duels, the Berlin newspaper Tageblatt reported in a Vienna dispatch today.

The count is leader of the Heimwehr Youths Association.

WPA Waste, Graft Charged By Hard

Philadelphia, Oct. 7—Bolstering his charges with 18 specific instances of irregularities, William Hard, radio commentator, declared in a broadcast last night that the Pennsylvania unit of the Works Progress Administration is "shot through with waste, graft and incompetence."

The easiest way to obtain employment in the federal relief agency in Pennsylvania, Hard charged, is to be a Democratic New Dealer.

He also charged Pennsylvania officials of the federal agency are violating a regulation which says "you must be on relief before you are given employment by the Works Progress Administration."

Flying Boat Arrives

New York, Oct. 7 (INS)—The Dornier flying boat Zephyr, sister ship of the Aeolus, arrived at Port Washington, L. I., today at 8:25 a. m., from the Azores. The Aeolus arrived yesterday after making the 2400-mile flight from Horta in 13 hours and 25 minutes.

NEW AMOSKEAG HEARING SET

Another private hearing will be started at 11 a. m. tomorrow by the Sabath Congressional committee, which is inquiring into affairs of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, it was learned today.

The information sought, it is understood, is connected with the bondholders and the mill management over a period from 1924 up to the time of the plan of reorganization this year.

Some of the stockholders and bondholders, whose names could not be learned today, will be summoned to testify at the hearing.

Meanwhile the books of the corporation, whose liquidation was ordered several weeks ago in federal court, are being inspected by auditors representing the Sabath committee.

State Rests Case In Rail Holdup

Lawrence, Oct. 7—The state rested its case in Superior Court here today in the trial of John F. McKenzie, 30, of Quincy, and Robert B. Holmes, 23, of Boston, alleged railway express car bandits.

Felix Gidovidge, 27, of Poplar street, West End, a chum of Holmes, was called to the stand as the first defense witness.

He testified he had been with Holmes the whole day of the alleged holdup and that both of them first heard of the holdup when they read the newspapers that night.

After District Attorney Hugh A. Cregg rested the state's case, Judge David F. Dillon directed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty against the two men on the charge of conspiracy to rob and murder.

The two men, however, face charges of assault with intent to rob and murder, armed robbery and carrying a revolver.

TRIES DEATH AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Oct. 7 (INS) — An unemployed and despondent electrician, who gave his name as J. D. Wilson, Atlanta, Ga., chose the White House grounds today as a dramatic stage upon which to call attention to his economic plight.

Within a few yards of the doors leading to the executive offices, Wilson, 36, slashed his wrists with a razor, and then strode through the doors calling for Marvin H. McIntyre, one of President Roosevelt's secretaries.

Leaving a trail of blood across the lobby floor, Wilson had almost reached the door to McIntyre's office before he was seized by White House police.

They took him to the guardroom in the basement, where he was given first-aid treatment. An ambulance was summoned and he was sent to Emergency Hospital.

The man's injuries were said to be serious but not fatal.

'Lost' Yacht Talks To Hawaii Via Air

Honolulu, Oct. 7 (AP)—Operators aboard the disabled yacht Margaret Payne carried on a radio conversation with Schofield Barracks today while a coast guard cutter hunted vainly for the helpless ship.

Army radio men reported members of the yacht's party said "we can't hold out much longer."

They have only rainwater to drink. No mention was made of food supplies. An overcast sky has made impossible a check on the ship's position, the crew said.

The coast guard cutter Itasca, which has been searching for the ship since it sent an SOS four days ago, reported it had found no trace of the Margaret Payne.

WASTE REVOLT SEEN BY DR. LANDIS

HITS CLAMOR FOR CHEAP MONEY

The truth about wasteful government expenditure would lead to an uprising in this country, Dr. W. S. Landis, vice-president of the American Cyanamid Co., today told business leaders at the 23rd annual National Business Conference at Babson Park, Wellesley Hills.

Declaring he wonders about "the sanity of these preachers and advocates of inflation," Dr. Landis continued:

"There would be such an uprising inthis country if the truth could be told to the people as would bring an immediate halt to the wasteful government expenditure which in turn brings on the deficits and which automatically starts the hweels of inflation.

HITS CHEAP MONEY

"Our service to our countrymen, therefore, lies in educating them in the truth of this fallacious money theory so loudly proclaimed by the ignorant spellbinders that have been clamoring for cheap money.

"We have made a comprehensive study of the so-called prosperity that follows inflation and in as far as business indexes are available, we find activity dropping as the currency becomes cheaper.

"We find bankruptcies grow enormously, not necessarily during the inflation because at that time no one knows his true position, but when the debris is swept up afterwards we find the wreckage of even the most conservative of business institutions, many with long histories of successful operation under normal monetary conditions."

PROPHESIES BOOM

Henry H. Stafford, commodity expert, told the gathering of the big business boom ahead in America. He declared:

"Just as the depression from 1929 broke all records, just as recovery was unlike any other in our economic history, so the period of business expansion ahead promises to be unprecedented."

He told of the greater public demand and of the growing confidence as far as buying is concerned.

First of Symphony Concerts Features Week's Calendar

By BETTY ALDEN

AUTUMN HAS COME to the old Bay Colony . . . In other sections the first few tingling frosts and the changing of the leaves from a uniform green to a riotous variety of reds and golds, heralds the arrival of the fall season . . .

But in Boston not only these signs, but others, reveal to the knowing eye that the time has come to put on warmer tweeds and look for football weather . . .

MRS. RICHARD K. THORNDIKE, JR.

All the tender summer plants have been removed from their beds on the Public Garden to make a place for the more hardy chrysanthemums . . . sidewalk cafes have retreated indoors, and the red canvas cover of the Ritz Roof is safely stored away, leaving a skeleton of iron framework silhouetted against the sky . . .

But if you will glance at your social calendar you will discover the most convincing sign of all . . . Beginning with this week not a single function of any importance has been planned for Friday afternoons . . . which means that the Symphony concerts are about to begin, and hostesses are adhering to the unwritten rule that nothing shall be planned to interfere with the Friday afternoon Symphony . . .

The regular week-end concerts begin Friday, with all the old guard and many, many of the new, holding season tickets and looking forward to the series, which has become a ritual in the social and musical life of the Hub . . .

Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., and her sister, Mrs. Oliver Wolcott, Mrs. Louis Frothingham, Mrs. Neal Rantoul and her daughter, Mrs. Richard King Thorndike, Jr., Mrs. Robert Livermore and her daughter, Gwen, Mrs. George Agassiz and Mrs. Maximillian Agassiz are just a few of the socially prominent making plans to be in their seats in Symphony Hall this Friday afternoon . . .

Caroline Pierce, Jean Richmond Honored

CAROLINE PIERCE of Milton is a couple of jumps ahead of most of her sister debs in the matter of having coming out parties . . . Several weeks ago she made her debut at a large tea given by her father, Mr. Charles Sumner Pierce, and this evening she is sharing honors with her friend, Jean Richmond, at a large dance at the Milton Club given by Mr. Pierce and Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Richmond . . .

Most of the girls attending the ushers' dinner have yet to make their debuts . . . though several of them have already made definite plans for their parties . . .

The dinner will be served at the Milton Club . . . the young guests finding their places at a horseshoe table profusely decorated with rosy red flowers and candles . . . The hostesses are both wearing white taffeta interwoven with a fine silver thread and Mrs. Richmond has chosen a silvery blue lame for her gown, so the rose color scheme will make a softly blending background for the receiving line . . .

Olivia Peters, Marjorie Motley, Rosamond Whitney, Letitia Howe, Penelope and Nancy Hill, Charlotte Hutchins, Eleanor Little and Faith Thoron are among the debs invited to dine with the ushers . . . also Sally Van Duyn of Syracuse, who is visiting Miss Richmond, Martha and Jane Young, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Young, Virginia Vogel, Peggy Paine and Margaret Rice . . .

Carleton Richmond, Jr., heads the ushers, and has among his assistants, Charles Andrews, Theodore S. Watson, Roger Pierce, Jr., Austin Harding, Jr., Francis King, Roger C. Mixter, W. Russell Peabody, Oliver Bolton, Robert T. Gannett, 2d, Daniel S. Cheever and several others . . .

New Charity Group Gets Started

WE HEAR SO MUCH about large organized charities that we sometimes fail to realize how many smaller groups are doing equally good work in a quiet, unobtrusive way . . .

Every now and then, however, we run across such a group . . . like the one which met at Mrs. Albert Kales' Marlborough street apartment yesterday afternoon . . .

They had been invited by Mrs. Kales, to come to tea . . . but before the party was very far along the guests all had their heads together discussing ways and means to develop the brand new organization they have just formed . . . It is called Rutland Chaplain's Association of Massachusetts, and aims to gather about 1000 members and eventually instigate legislation to provide a permanent fund to maintain a chaplain at the Rutland veterans' hospital . . . as well as at eighty other such institutions in the country . . .

Mrs. Kales was elected president of the organization with Colonel Horace Landon and Mrs. Francis Bird, first and second vice-presidents; Ralph Eastman, treasurer, and William A. Reed, executive secretary . . .

Amos A. Little, who attended the tea with Mrs. Little, was chosen a member of the advisory board . . . and Major-General Malvern H. Barnum (U. S. A. retired), Rev. Wallace Hayes, Colonel Charles R. Cabot and Ralph Eastman are also appointed to serve in this capacity . . .

Colonel Walter M. Pratt, one of those who has been instrumental in creating interest in the idea, saw to it that everyone's glass was brim full, while Mrs. Barney Plimpton presided over the teapot and fancy little sandwiches . . .

Among those sitting around the fireplace in a cosy half circle as they discussed the need of the fund they hope to establish, were Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, who is moving back to her Westwood home late in October . . . Mrs. Clare H. Draper and Mrs. Z. Boylston Adams . . . Mrs. H. Addington Bruce . . . Mr. Frederick S. Whitwell, who, with Mrs. Whitwell, has come back from the Cape and settled down for the winter at the Vendome . . .

Mrs. Robert Cushman chatted with Colonel and Mrs. C. Wellington Furlong and Mrs. Harry T. Hayward, Major-General and Mrs. Malvern H. Barnum, Walter H. Kilham, Stephen A. Drew, Mrs. Waldo Kendall, Mrs. C. Colby Hewitt and Commander Ewart G. Haas of the U. S. N., were others present.

A novel color motif was carried out in the decorations at Miss Virginia Wright's debut luncheon at The Country Club this afternoon. The small tables were arrayed with large clusters of mauve chrysanthemums and wine colored leaves in pink bowls.

Miss Wright wore hunters' green velveteen, a brown hat and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Irving Cloutman Wright of Chestnut Hill, mother of the debutante, wore modish black crepe with black accessories.

Miss Wright graduated from Beaver Country Day School and a number of her classmates and friends attended the luncheon.

Last Call for Problem Solutions

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Midnight slams shut the door of opportunity for you to see Nassau, the Paradise of the Tropics.

Nassau preceded by two grand days in New York with you stopping at the de luxe Park Central Hotel!

And three glorious days on the Cunard White Star liner, the S. S. Carinthia, doing all the things shipboard life affords.

Try your skill at letter writing. Answer the simple query: Should Sam Dodsworth forgive his wandering wife, Fran, and take her back? But mail it before midnight tonight.

The best letter will win a trip to Nassau in a contest conducted by this newspaper in collaboration with the Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters where the film will be shown beginning Friday.

Don't waste another moment, Write now.

Sam and Fran Dodsworth lived in Sinclair Lewis' novel, Dodsworth, they came to life in Sidney Howard's play and now they will move across the cinema in Sam Goldwyn's production of the story.

Author Lewis made Sam steady, sensitive, stubborn, respectable and colorless. He painted Fran bubbling with romantic notions, giddy, gay and a little forlorn.

Zenith, just any mid-western city is where they hail from, Europe is where they go. In fact, it's the European trip that causes the rift between Sam and Fran.

They both meet somebody else. Fran meets a hand-kissing Count, just what she wanted. And Sam meets a little comfort in Edith Cortwright.

Fran took the first wayward step. Now she is willing to retract but it is too late for Sam to forgive. You decide. But write your decision before 12 tonight because at that hour the contest closes. No letter dated later than midnight today will be considered.

If you don't win a trip to Nassau, you may win the handsome $100 Gruen watch, or some of the cash gifts which include awards of $25, $10, $5, $3 and $2.

What's more, the Loew's Theatres are awarding 35 pairs of tickets to see the superb film at their houses.

It's an opportunity you can't afford to lose, don't let it go by. Sit down and write now. Address your answer to Dodsworth Contest, Beatrice Fairfax, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

Walter Huston, as "Sam," and Ruth Chatterton, as "Fran," in the film play, "Dodsworth." "Shall Sam take Fran back?" That is the query to which Beatrice Fairfax seeks an answer.

Many Fashion Shows Planned by Clubs

By MARGUERITE DOWNEY

IF YOUR fall fashion problem is annoying you, why not attend one of the fashion shows which is being planned for next week and get some valuable hints from the parade of styles?

A glamorous array of furs and smart togs will be sponsored by the Proparvulis Club at their opening bridge which is slated a week from tomorrow evening at the Hotel Vendome.

Junior Philomatheia will hold forth the following evening, a week from Friday, at the club's chalet with a parade of furs and evening clothes under the direction of Catherine Curley of Dorchester.

For the Proparvulis Club affair, Noran Mullarkey, vice-president of the club in charge of bridges, has appointed Frances Redit, chairman.

Eleanor McNabb and Helen Callahan, who have been active in the club's whirl of events, will select models for the benefit and Marie Burke will direct the corps of candy sellers.

Assisting her are Helen Simonton, Helen Owens, Dorothy Hood, Agnes Hughes, Catherine Kelly, Catherine Barry, Mary Lynch, Katherine Forbes and Doris Cahill.

To Mary Killion has been given the task of selecting the prizes. On her committee are Doris Cahill, Helen Lafferty, Esther Kirby, Margaret Mary Downey, Julia Clarke, Ann McNabb, Myrtle Barry, Dorothea Wein, Margaret Killilea, Laura Levis and Mary McDonald.

Serving on the prize committee are Dorothy Martin, Lillian Baldi, Rosemary McEnaney, Marguerite Sweeney, Mary Driver, Marguerite Barry, Eleanor Sheerian, Alice Ballis, Celia Casby, Geraldine Guthrie, Martha Hurley, Mary Robinson and Mary Vallely.

Philomatheia Bridge Sponsors

The Junior Philomatheians are hoping that their fashion bridge will be as successful as the one which they sponsored last spring.

Subscribers to the affair will be welcomed by a reception committee composed of Mary Albre, who is returning from her vacation in the White Mountains to do her bit by the party, Sue Dargin, Mary Thompson, Eileen Barrett, Rosebud Adams, Virginia Grimes, Katherine Egan, Mary Cusick, Ann McCarthy and Elizabeth Chisholm.

Selling chances always proves a lucrative feature at these benefit bridges and Clare Conley is chairman of the group who will do this work. Helping her are Mary Thomas, Ruth Kinchla, Eleanor Reardon, Florence Donovan, Sabinia Tynan, Mary Scanlon, Helen Bulger, Mary Furlong, Julia Bupon and Eleanor Sheerin.

Aristos Club is not restricting its activities to fashion bridges. The club is going to lead a hectic month with a Halloween dance, bowling club sessions and a bridge and fashion show slated for the next fortnight or two.

Mrs. Ruth Cusack McManus is chairman of the Halloween frolic to be held the last Friday evening of this month at the Hotel Somerset.

Katherine Erwin of Braintree is busy with plans for a fashion show and bridge for the club, which will be held early in November. The bowling club holds its initial meeting of the season at the Huntington Alleys next Monday evening. Over 50 girls have signed up for this interesting sidelight on club activities.

LANDON SONG CONTEST WON BY R. I. MAN

Five more days to go!

There is still time to submit your entry in the contest for the grand national award of $1000.

After several hundred contributions had been considered, Charles E. Maines, Box 33, Hope Valley, R. I., was adjudged today's $10 prize winner. He becomes eligible for the grand award of $1000 or one of the 25 cash prizes of $25 each.

The selection of these national awards will be made by a jury consisting of some of the country's best known musical and lyrical authorities.

So keep sending in your entries, all you embryonic lyricists. You may qualify for the daily and national awards.

Just address your contributions to the Landon Song Campaign Editor, 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

Here is today's winning lyric:

He comes from wind-swept Kansas, where the golden sunflow'rs wave.
He stands four-square for Liberty; he's honest and he's brave.
He's on his way to Washington— to honor and renown.
There'll be a fight for truth and right when Landon goes to town.

(Refrain)

Vote for Landon! Vote the Raw Deal down!
We'll land on solid ground again when Landon goes to town.

The rusting wheels will turn again, the fertile fields bloom fair.
The Nation will be solvent when the Brain Trust gets the air.
He will not seek Dictatorship, nor try to wear a crown,
But we'll go back to common-sense when Landon goes to town.

He doesn't promise riches for the loafer and the shirk.
He doesn't promise luxury for those who will not work.
He'll banish the uncertainty and fear that holds us down.
And we won't be swamped with taxes when Landon goes to town.

So heads up, all Americans, and show your strength and worth.
And keep our land the fairest and the greatest on the Earth.
We'll down the Reds, defend our rights and do the thing up brown
And call the country ours again when Landon goes to town.

Few Simple Test Rules

All letters shall answer the question: SHOULD SAM TAKE FRAN BACK?

None shall exceed 100 words.

No letter received after midnight, October 7, shall be considered.

Each entrant shall accept the judges' decision as final.

The following shall be the awards:

First: Free, all-expense trip to Nassau, with two days in New York.

Second: $100 Gruen man's or woman's watch.

Third: $25 cash.

Fourth: $10 cash.

Fifth and sixth: $5 cash each.

Seventh: $3. And Eighth: $2.

Thirty-five next best letters: Each a pair of tickets to "Dodsworth" at Loew's State or Orpheum Theaters.

Newtonville Girl Weds Ct. Pastor

MISS MARY JANE RAILSBACK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Percy Railsback of Newtonville, became the bride of the Rev. Edgar Lipscomb Bell of Norwich, Ct., last evening.

The Rev. Lawrence W. C. Emig and Dr. Charles Stedman MacFarland, secretary emeritus of the Federated Churches of Christ of America, jointly officiated at the ceremony in the Newtonville Methodist Episcopal Church.

The bride wore a gown of white velvet made on princess lines with a long tulle veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book marked with streamers of lilies-of-the-valley.

Miss Grace Taylor of Newtonville, the maid of honor, was in a gown of green velvet and carried a large bouquet of bronze and gold chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, Miss Susan Railsback, a cousin of the bride, Miss Bethana Rees of Newtonville, Miss Janice Stange of West Newton, Miss Elinor Brown of Newtonville, and Miss Margaret Carter of Danville, Va., wore dresses of flame velvet and carried bronze chrysanthemums.

The Rev. Daniel Nicely of Stroudsburg, Pa., was the best man, and Edward Neal Railsback, of Newtonville, a brother of the bride, headed the corps of ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Foster street home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Railsback, mother of the bride, wore a rust lace dress with matching velvet hat and a corsage of gardenias as she assisted in receiving the guests.

The bride attended Wellesley College and the University of Indiana, and is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Kappa Kappa Gamma. Mr. Bell, who is the son of the Rev. James Marshall and the late Mrs. Bell of Sanborn, N. Y., graduated from Bethany College, in Bethany, West Virginia, and from the Divinity School of Yale University.

Red Support for Roosevelt

Browder Spurred Minnesota Unity

New York, Oct. 7—The political developments in Minnesota—where the Democratic and Communist parties have withdrawn their state candidates and have formed an alliance within the Farmer-Labor party to support Franklin D. Roosevelt—were virtually predicted by Earl Browder last June at the ninth national convention of the Communist party in New York city.

Browder who is a member of the Comintern at Moscow, as well as general secretary of the Communist party in this country, delivered the report of the Communist central committee to the convention.

In this report, he outlined the Communist strategy for utilizing the 1936 campaign to build a revolutionary "peoples front" in 1940.

FOLLOW PROGRAM

The deals just effected in Minnesota, in Roosevelt's behalf, follow exactly along the lines of the Communist program then formulated. In his report, Browder said:

"With full knowledge that the great majority are not yet prepared to turn to Socialism, as represented either by the Socialist party or the Communist party, WE COMMUNISTS COME FORWARD with an immediate program which the masses are ready to support.

"This program is essentially covered by the platform adopted by the Farmer-Labor party national conference, held in Chicago on May 30-31, on the call of the MINNESOTA FARMER-LABOR PARTY and Governor Floyd Olson.

NON SUPPORT

"Our central committee gave its full support to that conference, its decisions and platform.

"That action should have the unanimous endorsement of this convention.

"The Chicago conference LAID THE FOUNDATION FOR A NATIONAL FARMER-LABOR PARTY IN 1936 the foundations for the people's front which can halt the forces of Fascism and war in America.

"The Farmer-Labor party movement is a rapidly growing national force.

"The Chicago conference was thoroughly representative of it, with the exception of the Wisconsin movement, and some national trade unions which refrained from participation because of their tie-up with the new labor's non-partisan league for support of Roosevelt.

"Even in this latter case, however, the Chicago conference showed its influence and vitality by the friendly relations with the progressive trade unions exhibited in the greetings and good wishes sent the conference by John L. Lewis, Sidney Hillman and David Dubinsky.

MAJOR INFLUENCES

"There is every reason to expect the Farmer-Labor party to emerge in the 1936 elections as a major influence in American political life . . .

"Our fundamental conception of the Farmer-Labor party is that it will include also the Socialist and Communist parties . . .

"We would gladly sacrifice the advantages of our own independent ticket, in favor of the ticket selected by a broad people's front against reaction, Fascism and war . . .

"Our own independent ticket is not a matter of rigid principle with us; we can MAINTAIN AND ADVANCE OUR VIEWS EVEN MORE EFFECTIVELY, under the conditions now prevailing in America, in face of the threat of rampant reaction and war, within the broader unity of a working class and people's front.

"That means that our independent ticket will be placed in the service of creating that broader unity, the people's front.

"IT WILL PROMOTE THE FARMER-LABOR PARTY IN EVERY WAY POSSIBLE . . .

EDUCATION CAMPAIGN

"Our campaign will be primarily on behalf of the program of the people's front.

"At the same time we will carry on a mass campaign of education, on a scale never before attained. TO TEACH THE BROAD MILLIONS THE MEANING OF SOCIALISM, OF THE WORKING CLASS REVOLUTION, OF THE FULL COMMUNIST PROGRAM . . .

"We Communists, throwing our lot in with the Farmer-Labor party movement, agree to fight for the road to progress under capitalism together with those who are not adherents of Socialism as we are; while at the same time we point out that the only guarantee of progress is to abolish capitalism and move to socialism."

Roosevelt Thanks 2 Who Quit Race

Special to American Newspapers Inc.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 7—Telegrams of thanks and appreciation from President Roosevelt were received here by Fred A. Ossanna and Patrick J. Delaney, Democratic candidates for Governor and U. S. Senator, respectively, for withdrawing in favor of the Communist supported Farmer-Labor Party candidates.

The President's telegram read:

"I want you to know how much I appreciate the fine sense of loyalty which prompted you to withdraw from the gubernatorial and senatorial race. Personally I am deeply grateful that you were willing to sacrifice your personal ambitions in my behalf and for the good of the party."

Meanwhile Democratic clubs were being formed in all parts of the state to combat the fusion and a strong move was reported under way to send the Democrats into Republican columns rather than join hands with the Communist Farmer-Labor fusion. Republican leaders welcomed this movement.

ROOSEVELT SON DENIES 'RED' PLANE DEAL

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 7 (INS)—Elliott Roosevelt today vigorously denied charges of alleged negotiations with Soviet Russia to sell military airplanes to that country, declaring, "The whole affair is purely political."

Roosevelt, upon his return to his home this afternoon, expressed surprise at reports that Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane manufacturer, had made a deposition before the Senate munitions committee, declaring the President's son had been paid $5000 cash under an unfulfilled contract stipulating a $500,000 commission for such sales.

"It is rather amazing that the munitions committee would make public such statements without allowing me to reply to them," he stated. "The entire effort of Fokker has been to create a false impression, and the only motive I can see for an exposition of this nature is that he entertained hard feelings against me personally for not continuing in his employ."

HAS CONTRACT COPY

The contract—never consummated—which gave rise to the reports, he explained, was an agreement for sales of commercial transport planes. The terms of the contract, Roosevelt emphasized, definitely stated that he would not have to sell military planes. He affirmed that he had a copy of the contract, which he would be glad to present at any time to the munitions committee.

$5000 PAID STRATTON

"I recall that $5000 was given to an associate of mine, G. W. Stratton," he pointed out. "That money was spent by him for services that he rendered Fokker with which I had nothing to do."

The President's son said the contract provided he was to receive an annual payment of $20,000 for the first year, with an option calling for $30,000 the second year. A clause specifically provided that he not be asked to deal with the United States government or anyone connected with it.

Also, he said, it set forth that at no time would he be called upon to represent Fokker with officials of any European power, or to engage in extraneous missions or negotiations in Russia, Mexico or other countries.

Nye Explains Secrecy In Fokker Plane Expose

Washington, Oct. 7 (INS)—The Senate munitions committee a year ago declined to investigate publicly the alleged tie-up between Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, and Anthony H. G. Fokker, because it would have resulted in "smearing of the President," Senator Nye (R) of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, said today.

He stated that, in fairness to all concerned, he made public an affidavit from the files of the committee in which Fokker said he and Roosevelt planned to sell planes to Soviet Russia. Nye said:

"The matter was one which the committee gave a great deal of consideration. As it was studied, the first thing apparent was that the contract, if there was one, was not fulfilled, no business was done, and going into a public hearing would have resulted in but one thing—smearing of the President—which no member of the committee wanted to do.

"Concurring in this view were Senators Vandenberg, Barbour and myself, as Republican members of the committee, and my whole purpose in making the Fokker affidavit public was to afford a demonstration of the fact that, after all, nothing ever had come of the tie-up."

Asked whether the committee will now hold a public investigation, he said that all hearings have been ended.

Roosevelt Contradicted:

Communist Active In Labor Party

By HAROLD LORD VARNEY

New York, Oct. 7—That a well-known Communist Party leader whose name appears on the official ballot as a COMMUNIST PARTY NOMINEE for office is a member of the CITY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE of the AMERICAN LABOR PARTY of New York, is the latest fact to come to light in regard to this Roosevelt-supporting party.

The presence of this known Communist on the steering committee of the new party is in direct contradiction of the protestation of Hillman, Antonini and other American labor party leaders that Communists would not be admitted to the party.

It is also regarded as a significant commentary on the recent declaration of President Roosevelt that he will not accept Communist support in this campaign.

The red city committeeman of Mr. Roosevelt's hand-picked party is Sam Nesin.

He was chosen to the committee as a representative of the left wing "trade union committee for a labor party" on August 20 when that organization was admitted as a body to the new American labor party after negotiations between the executive committees of the two organizations.

Red Nominee

While helping to direct the policies of the American Labor party, Nesin's name appears this year on the ballot as the official Communist party nominee for assemblyman in the 6th A. D. in the Bronx.

Moreover, the American Labor party leaders could not have been unaware of Nesin's Communism when they admitted him to their city committee, as he has long been a conspicuous participant in Communist "boring from within" activities in the local trade union movement.

He is a former instructor in "Trade Union Strategy and Tactics" at the Workers' School, the OFFICIAL COMMUNIST PARTY TRAINING SCHOOL.

He is a member of the executive committee of the Unemployed Councils of New York.

On October 6, 1930, Nesin was arrested while participating in a Communist demonstration in New York and charged with "inciting to riot." He was arraigned under this charge before Magistrate Corrigan and discharged.

Spear Head

He has long been regarded as one of the spear-heads of the Communist agitation in the New York trade union movement.

The "trade union committee for a labor party" which Nesin was chosen to represent on the city committee of the American Labor party includes practically all of the Communist-controlled labor unions in New York.

Its admittance by the American Labor party, despite the known antecedents of many of its members, is regarded as an indication that the American Labor party has no serious intention to draw the line against red groups in this campaign.

In fact, there are indications that the American Labor party has deliberately gone out of the way to solicit the affiliation of organizations which are openly under Communist control.

Led by Ben Gold

One of these organizations is the Furriers' Joint Council, led by Ben Gold, prominent Communist party leader.

Had Hillman and Dubinsky been sincere in their intention to exclude Communists from their party, the Furriers' Joint Council would have been first on their exclusion list.

On the contrary, a letter was received by the joint council from the American Labor party and read before the August 17 meeting of the council SOLICITING the membership of this Red council in the American Labor party, an invitation which was accepted by the union.

Other instances of such indiscriminate solicitation of membership from known Communist-controlled or Communist-sympathizing New York labor bodies are beginning to be regarded as a direct refutation of the pretense of the American Labor party that it rejects Red support in this campaign.

U. S. INFLATION SEEN BY KNOX

Aboard Knox Campaign Train, Touring New Jersey, Oct. 7 (AP)—Assailing the Roosevelt administration for "wild, planless squandering," Colonel Frank Knox, Republican vice-presidential nominee, warned New Jersey voters today that "unless the people order a halt" some form of inflation is ahead.

Knox swung his special campaign train, which has taken him into 25 states, through southern and central New Jersey, renewing the tour he began yesterday.

When he halted in South Elizabeth, first stop in today's itinerary, Knox asked the crowd:

"Do you realize that today the United States is thirteenth among the nations in the world in the degree of recovery? If you want to get the twelve million unemployed back to work, and get the government machinery back on the track, and stop this waste and extravagance, I give you Alf M. Landon—the next President of the United States."

'CURLEY FEARS DUBINSKY AID,' WEEKS CLAIMS

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

"Can it be that Curley, McGrath, et al, are afraid of the support of Mr. Dubinsky and the Needle Trades Unions, just as Mr. Roosevelt is afraid of the support of the Communists and of Curley?"

Chairman Sinclair Weeks of the Republican State Committee hurled this bomb today in commenting upon the failure of Governor Curley, Chairman Joseph McGrath of the Democratic State Committee, and other leaders of the Roosevelt Party to grace with their presence the first Roosevelt mass meeting in Tremont Temple.

At this meeting deafening applause from about 3000 needle workers greeted a paean of praise for Earl Browder, Communist candidate for President, delivered by David Dubinsky, Socialist, and Roosevelt elector in New York.

CURLEY ADVERTISED

"The Unions' rally, I am informed," Chairman Weeks declared, "was arranged by the Democratic State Committee, through the Young Democrats. The least Governor Curley could have done was to be present at his own meeting."

Weeks pointed out that the unions had widely advertised Governor Curley as one of the chief speakers.

"However, he ducked into the western part of the state and was not on hand to hear Davis, Dubinski and others extol the virtues of Mr. Roosevelt," Weeks continued. "I failed to note also the presence of Mr. McGrath at Mr. Dubinsky's meeting."

Weeks asserted that the Republican organization is not the least bit disturbed by the result of the Worcester election, saying it was purely local, and the G. O. P. state committee had taken no part.

WHAT OF WAGER?

"In the event McGrath should claim the Worcester result indicates Democratic success in the nation," Weeks added, "I can only remind him that I have not heard from him in response to my suggestion that he place a modest wager on the result in November."

At the Roosevelt rally in Tremont Temple, Dubinsky vehemently denied he is a Communist, and he said the unions of which he is the head bars Communists from membership.

In comparing those who raised the Communist issue against him with Browder, however, he said:

"Browder is honorable, honest, straightforward and has the courage of his convictions."

Both Dubinsky and Sidney Hillman, former Socialist of New York, starred at the big rally.

Both made passionate appeals for the defeat of Governor Landon, the Republican presidential candidate, and for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

WPA Man's Charges

Told to Aid Deal Or Quit Work

Political intimidation is practiced by the Works Progress Administration in Massachusetts, and Administrator Paul Edwards is not telling the truth when he denies it, Ralph J. Granara, federal relief employe, charged today.

At a crowded Republican noonday forum in Washington street, Granara, who was moved from a post in the West End to one in Roslindale, asserted that the only reason for the change was because he had been campaigning for the Republican party.

When he asked Edwards why he had been shifted, the administrator told him, Granara said:

"It's just as well this thing happened. You're on your way out. It would have been only a few days before I would have had to tell you that you were through.

"You can't expect a weekly wage out of a security program like this if you are going to campaign against the man who started it," Granara quoted Edwards as having said.

"BARS POLITICS"

The speaker scoffed at a statement Edwards had made today in which the administrator threatened to move for indictment of any person who tried to influence voters to join in supporting the Roosevelt campaign.

"When I asked Mr. Edwards why I was 'on the way out,' he replied that it was because of my campaigning for Landon and Knox," Granara asserted.

"He said he would not allow anyone on the WPA or connected with it to be active in politics for any party.

"I said that this was the silliest statement that I had ever heard, because Mr. Edwards' secretary in the lobby was wearing a Roosevelt button in the lapel of his coat and 75 per cent of the personnel of the WPA is active in politics."

FLAYS ADMINISTRATION

Granara charged that Edwards didn't answer these observations but that he had been told by George Dunn, head of the state surplus commodities department, that Dunn had been told "they are going to get rid of Granara for campaigning for Landon and Knox."

Granara challenged Edwards to explain why, if politics had nothing to do with the WPA, how he himself got his job as administrator.

"Mr. Edwards never held as high an executive position until he was appointed to his present post, and neither had the heads of the various departments under him," the speaker continued.

N. E. JEFFERSONIANS

Strome Accepts Chairmanship

Charles B. Strome of Worcester, executive alumni secretary of Holy Cross College, today accepted the chairmanship of the executive committee of the New England division of the National Jeffersonian Democrats.

The appointment of Strome to this organization of prominent Democrats who have "taken a walk" on the Raw Deal and of which former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri is national chairman, caused a furore among the Democrats lined up behind the candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Strome is of Mayflower descent and comes from a long line of Democrats. His great-grandfather, Samuel Collings, was one of the founders of the Democratic party in northeastern Pennsylvania.

"We old-fashioned Democrats hold that the institution of America as established by our forefathers is better suited for our happiness and welfare than any other ever devised," Strome declared on accepting the position.

"There are some of us left who are willing to stand up and fight for the perpetuation of the kind of government that Thomas Jefferson envisaged. We certainly prefer that kind of government to a new and strange order which may prove a return to old forms of terrorism."

Who Keeps Them Idle, Industry or Roosevelt?

President Roosevelt, attempting to excuse his failure to reduce unemployment after spending billions of dollars, says that industry is keeping people out of work.

A dispatch to The New York Evening Sun from Greenville, Mississippi, says:

"Greenville has known very little industrial unemployment throughout the entire depression. A survey of the county shows 1200 unemployed, mostly Negro farm labor."

Roosevelt through his AAA, paid the landowners of Greenville to stop production of cotton, thus throwing these Negroes out of employment. The Southern States refused to contribute to the support of Negroes.

Roosevelt refuses to compel the South to contribute its fair share of relief. Instead, he takes hundreds of millions of dollars contributed by Northern States, and pours it into the South.

Thus the billions voted "to give jobs to those made idle by the depression" are used to give jobs to those made idle by AAA and kept idle by WPA.

Joan Blondell Wins Lead in Warner Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service)

Los Angeles, Oct. 7—When Joan Blondell returns from her honeymoon with Dick Powell and Warner Brothers' hectic rice throwing party in New York she will get ready for an equally exciting movie assignment.

Louella O. Parsons

Mervyn LeRoy, who has been looking every day for the chorus girl in "The King and the Chorus Girl," finally decided he needn't look any further, that Joan had just what is needed for that highly specialized role.

Naturally this will be one of the most eagerly awaited pictures in a long time. Not only is it Mervyn's first producing venture, but it introduces Fernand Gravet to the American public. Either Gravet will wow the women of this country or he will be a total loss. There can be no halfway about an actor who has had so much written and said about his looks and ability.

* * *

"Romeo and Juliet" will be Norma Shearer's last screen appearance unless she can be persuaded that work is a panacea for heartache. Norma, when I talked with her a few days ago, said that she cannot even bear to think of making another picture. She told of a curious premonition that came over her as she was acting in "Romeo and Juliet" that she would never act again. Time, of course, heals all wounds and, perhaps later she may find solace in her art. Certainly the screen cannot afford to lose its first lady, but for a year at least "Marie Antoinette" and "Pride and Prejudice" will not be filmed—at least not with Norma.

* * *

Richard Boleslawski should be "Three Other Guys" or, at least three of himself to fill his present jobs of supervising the editing of "Theodora Goes Wild" for Columbia, performing the same duties for Selznick's "Garden of Allah" and trying to talk Eddie Mannix into letting him take a vacation trip to Warsaw, Poland. But before he leaves he will complete the original story he is writing for Clark Gable and Joan Crawford, titled "A Swell Defense." This comedy drama will follow "Parnell" for Joan and Clark and, counting in "Love on the Run," makes three in a row for them altogether.

We thought no comedy could ever surpass "My Man Godfrey" for honest fun, but "Libeled Lady" is just as good and perhaps a shade better. It's the maddest, most riotous farce of the current season and just one laugh after another. Four names of equal magnitude in the cast, Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy, but Jean is given first billing by her studio with the names arranged horizontally across the screen and it must have been a problem indeed to give all three stars the break each deserves.

Big "Good-Will-Court" Air Attraction Due Tonight

By N. F. T.

Hunters for the vivid "Good Will Court" hour have come to relish the Wednesday night airing of the turn with the same spirit they display when tuning in to the Sunday night setting. This evening (WMEX) brings the mid-week session from 10 to 11 o'clock.

"N. F. T."

All manner of misery and misfortune is reported when this human interest impression holds forth. It has clicked [illegible] conflicts with the court to [illegible] air [illegible] that WMEX of Boston catches very heavy attention by means of featuring the Wednesday night edition of it all. Lately the program planners have selected the idea of arranging to assist the people who come to "the court" for solution of their particular problems. Thus make is known that anyone desiring to be of help in connection with the cases are permitted to lend a hand as they feel the circumstances might warrant.

If comment concerning the first "Metropolitan Singers" half hour of last week (WNAC) is a good broadcasting barometer, the 100-voice male chorus and other talented Hub artists who take part, can feel assured that 7:30 to 8 o'clock this evening will find throngs again tuned to the Yankee Network key station. It's the new local studio presentation where Roy Harlow directs the 100 men in song, with Jack Kilty, Selma Johanson, Rakov of the violin and Francis Cronin at the organ are ready and waiting to waft another striking impression.

Daughters of Ct. To Hear Dr. Hsieh

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, head of the Chinese Service Bureau in Boston, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Daughters of Connecticut tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Young Women's Christian Association building.

Mrs. W. S. Walkley, vice-president of the organization, will preside. Dr. Hsieh will speak on "The Oriental Situation as Affecting America and the World."

Sen. Copeland Reveals

Reds Sought Aid of British Army

What is the situation in Palestine today? What are the issues involved in the bloody strife now in progress there? How does Great Britain administer the mandate over Palestine? What of the future of the Jewish National Home?

To answer these questions of interest to millions of Americans, The Hearst Newspapers sent to Palestine an Unofficial Senatorial Commission composed of Senators Royal S. Copeland of New York, Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware and Warren R. Austin of Vermont.

They have, however, embodied their first-hand observations in a number of articles. The eleventh follows:

By ROYAL S. COPELAND
United States Senator from New York.

Copyright, 1936, American Newspapers, Inc.

In the recurrent bloody strife between the Arabs and the Jews in Palestine the agents of Moscow have been quick to exploit the opportunities for their own ends. In the present reign of terror, according to information we gleaned in Jerusalem, the Communists early joined the campaign by inciting the Arabs against the Jewish settlers.

In my candid opinion, there is no more solid anti-Communist body in the world than the 400,000 Jewish people in the Holy Land. Many of them hail from Russia where Zionism is persecuted and the Hebrew tongue outlawed. One of our chauffeurs was a Jewish youth typical of this class of immigrants. He had been exiled to Siberia for his Zionist beliefs. His mother arrived in Palestine on the day our party landed in Haifa. She had buried her husband in Siberian exile and was ransomed from Soviet captivity by her son.

The powerful Palestine Federation of Labor, which numbers nearly 100,000 members and which represents virtually all the Jewish workers in the country, has a standing rule which automatically bars any Communist from joining a labor union.

Less Than 200

We were reliably informed that the Jewish section of the Communist party in Palestine numbered less than 200 persons. It was difficult to ascertain the extent of the Arab Communist movement.

The recent policy of Moscow has been to align the Communists with the Arab nationalists, under the disguise of a "united front," and to identify the Zionist leadership with British imperialism. The latter has been done despite the obvious cleavage between the responsible Jewish leaders and the British authorities.

The policy of the Jewish community in Palestine, in the face of Communist proclamations encouraging massacre, has been to deliver known Communists to the authorities for deportation. A group of such deportees was being taken in a prison car to the Haifa port in the same train which carried us there on the way out of Palestine.

"It is impossible to give as yet a complete account of the atrocious part played by the Communists, Jewish as well as Arab, in the present riots," commented the Palestine Review, the leading Jewish weekly of the country. "The facts so far known suffice to make it amply clear that they have been even more active than in 1929.

"Never were the Jews of Palestine so deeply revolted as now by these activities . . . and never were they as determined to rid Palestine of the Jewish section at least of its Communist party."

In the course of our investigation of this phase of the terror, we received from a high official source the text of a Communist proclamation, issued in Haifa this August, written in English, and addressed:

"To all British soldiers, members of the navy and the air forces in Paestine and Transjordan!"

This remarkable document described the terrorist strike as "the struggle of the working masses in Palestine for liberation."

It took up the agitation for an "independent Arab federation" of all Arab countries. It proceeded to fan Arab nationalism by representing Palestine as "an organic part of Syria," torn away by imperialistic Great Britain and turned over to the latter's "partner"—Zionism.

And what is the purpose of this partnership? Read the text of the appeal, giving answer as follows:

"An eternal subjugation, cruel suppression, limitless exploitation of all inhabitants of the country. And all this for what purpose? For the creation of a Zionist state, which will serve as a secure point of support in order to get out the highest possible profits for the British-Zionist capital!

"The Arabs will become a minority in their own country, and on the ruins of their cities and villages shall be built by the Zionists . . . Under the protection of the British bayonets, a new dominion, a national home for the international capital.

"Limitless suffering has been caused to the working masses by the Zionists, who are evicting them from their lands and robbing them of their places of work, and by the British imperialists who are sucking out the country's sap and are shedding the blood of its inhabitants."

Seek Help

The proclamation then proceeded to call on the British soldiers and marines to join the Arab insurgents. It closed with the following battle-cries:

"LONG LIVE THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT, A GOVERNMENT OF DEPUTIES OF WORKERS' AND PEASANTS' COUNCILS IN A FEDERATIVE REPUBLIC OF ALL THE WORKING PEOPLE OF THE ARAB COUNTRIES!

"LONG LIVE SOVIET ENGLAND!

"LONG LIVE THE WORLD SOCIAL REVOLUTION!"

This document indicated to us that Moscow was ready to take over the most bigoted arguments in order to foster civil war. It offered proof that while the Soviet government was attempting to fraternize with Great Britain in Europe, it wielded the assassin's knife in the East. And it furnished evidence, if any was needed, that the Communist International still adhered as firmly as ever to the cause of world revolution.

BOSTON after DARK

By

GEORGE HOLLAND

I HEAR THAT: Mary Pickford and Buddy Rogers will sail on the Normandie (honeymooning) on October 14. The ceremony will be quiet, with a wedding party limited to Buddy's father and mother and very close friends of the principals at the Sherry-Netherlands. Buddy resides at the New York Athletic Club, a block away from Miss Pickford's favorite hotel . . . Mary is now the second wealthiest actress in the world. The Thalberg bequest of almost everything to Norma Shearer makes the cinema's "Juliet" the Hetty Green of Hollywood . . . Rabbit Maranville will manage Montreal next season. The news won't break until after draft time, in December . . . Mary Daly Osterman, ex— of Jack Osterman, is back in this, her home town. A Ziegfeld favorite and a budding picture prospect, lovely, blonde Mary decided that little Katherine Jacqueline Osterman, four years old, should be reared in Boston.

GEORGE HOLLAND

Hollywood Scepticism:

On hearing the news that Dick Powell and Joan Blondell had been married, Bert Wheeler exclaimed:

"Impossible. That's the gal he was engaged to."

Once Over Lightly:

Luise Rainer says: "I am not an intellectual actress, I'm an emotional one." She's been barred from all Hollywood teas . . . Johnny Donovan, the horse trainer, was a bartender in Jolson's "Wunderbar." He bought the contract of little Johnny Barba, the jockey who rode a triple at Rock, for a bowl of clam-chowder . . . Al Donahue's wife, the former Fredrica Gallatin, daughter of the former Secretary of the Treasury and double-A social register, arrived by plane yesterday . . . Cole Porter, composer of "Red, Hot and Blue," is living at the Ritz. He has a million-dollar villa in Europe, and a home in Peru, Indiana, his native-hearth, where a Japanese motif in architecture sets it quite apart from the other shanties of the town . . . James I. Bush, prominent in the operation of Rockingham, was a 12-letter man at Wisconsin. He was left end and football captain in 1904 . . . B. V. Brohan is chairman of the Charles F. Hurley campaign entertainment committee . . . Young Happy will be guest of honor at the opening of the Waterfront Club, where Tiny and several other tons of womanhood will beguile the customers. H. M. Addison, division manager for Loew's, has thinned himself 25 pounds . . . The new Bradford Penthouse show, opening Friday, is touted highly. "Boots" McKenna, the Boston dance director, has staged it. Jean Sargent, Charles and Celeste, the dancers; Billy Payne and the Shear Brothers are featured. And this is the "major spot" mentioned here last week as Chet Nelson's working-place. Chet and his band will be the musicians . . . Levaggi is spending $30,000 on his downtown grille.

Political Note:

A correspondent remarks that the name of the author who wrote the poem beginning: "Oh, for a LODGE in some vast wilderness," is not Charles H. McGlue.

Chatter:

They are propositioning one of the downtown parsons to call his sermon, "Boy Meets Girl," starting off with Adam and Eve . . . They play Ruby's theme song, "Melancholy Baby," when the charming proprietress of The Den makes the rounds. Lew Conrad sang the great tear-jerker beautifully at the Grove when The King (Ruby's husband) and Mrs. Foo entered . . . "The Maid of Salem" will have its world premiere at Salem, with Claudette Colbert and Frank Lloyd, the director, present—if present plans aren't changed . . . Martha Raye's showing in "The Big Broadcast of 1937" slates her for stardom as a comedienne, they say . . . Selma Cort has more appeal and vitality (in this opinion) than any of the local singers who haven't hit the big-time yet . . . The Three Variety Boys sing one with the bumpy title: "Bouncing Across the Country on a Bus." At the Mayfair . . . The World Series was played with two different rules on infield flies . . . The American League rule prevailed at the Yankee Stadium, and the National League rule at the Polo Grounds. Incidentally, there is a conflict with another rule about a ball hitting a base-runner in the A. L. regulation about infield flies. Also, in the American League, only two infielders can leave their positions to slap a pitcher on the back. In the National, the whole four can whisper at him . . . Pat "Old Blub" Malone (Jimmy Cannon christened him) is the only ball player who lives on Park avenue. Or ever did, as far as is known . . . Mickey Cochrane's job seems safe. He travelled east with young Walter Briggs through the St. Lawrence Canal on the Briggs yacht. It's Briggs ownership largely, that of the Tigers . . . Angelo Lippi is ailing with arthritis . . . Julie Dickson, Winnie Madden, Ladd and Garde, Lorraine Merrill and Mayta Palmera are dancing and singing at the Lido.

FREDRIC MARCH OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND

A graphic screen version of one of the most famous novels of modern fiction comes to the Paramount and Fenway tomorrow when "Anthony Adverse" has its first screenings. Fredric March and Olivia de Havilland play the leading roles and are shown here in a tender scene from the film.

Deaf Dance Stars in New Met Show

Included in the list of featured players who will support Dave Apollon in his new "1937 Revue" at the Metropolitan Friday are a lovely red-haired girl of 19, and a good-looking lad of 22 who dance together with rhythmical precision.

They are Charlotte and Charles Lamberton, the deaf mutes (brother and sister), who won acclaim at the Hollywood Restaurant on Broadway after coming out of the West a year ago.

Charlotte Lamberton

The Lambertons dance to music they can't hear. The beat of the drum reaches them through the soles of their feet as they step along the dance floor.

Apollon's new production has 55 performers. His 15-piece "tropical swing band" is headlined. All members of the band are soloists, and Harold Aloma, the tenor, is among them.

Johnny Woods, talented impersonator; Senor Wences, the ventriloquist; the Six Radioettes, Eva Lorraine, from the Paris Comique, Yvonne Moray, the world's "smallest blues-singer," Ruth Delrio and John Barnes are in the company. The screen attraction will be the widely-heralded "Big Broadcast of 1937."

Playbill

OPENING TONIGHT

COLONIAL—"Red, Hot and Blue," with Jimmy Durante, Ethel Merman and Bob Hope. Cole Porter wrote the music, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse the book, and Vinton Freedley is the producer. This combination created "Anything Goes." The engagement is for ten days only.

Screen Epic At Fenway, Paramount

That Titan of the novels, "Anthony Adverse," which Harvey Allen transcribed to 1224 pages after four years of writing, will take the twin screens of the Paramont and Fenway Theaters tomorrow for its first Boston showing in film form. Fredric March and Olivia de Havilland are featured.

At Keith's Boston tomorrow the new entertainment program features "Cuban Follies," and the presentation reads that the cast goes under the name of "Ciro Rimac's Rumbaland Muchachos."

Rimac, Charley Boy and Carito are featured, as are Tito Coral, who was present in Ziegfeld's "Hot Cha," and Don Zelaya, "the philosophical pianist." A "bevy of South American beauties" do the chorus work.

Also on the Keith-Boston stage as headliners of the new show are Mitchell and Durant, the comedians who appeared in Al Jolson's "The Singing Kid."

Brian Donlevy and Gloria Stuart have the chief assignments in "36 Hours to Kill," the featured picture.

* * *

In its panoramic story, "Anthony Adverse" sweeps through five countries and three continents. In the magnitude of its 131 sets, in the picturesqueness of its backgrounds, and the gigantic scale on which it was produced, "Anthony Adverse" is described as one of the most lavish films ever made in Hollywood.

More than 2500 players take part in the picture.

Mervyn Le Roy, who directed for Warner Bros., is said to have captured all the vividness, fire and color of the original novel, and advance reports have it that the film adaptation is replete with dynamic action, glamorous romance and thrilling adventure.

In addition to the featured players, the cast includes Edmund Gwenn, Claude Rains, Anita Louise, Louis Hayward, Gale Sondergaard, Steffi Duna, Ralph Morgan and Henry O'Neill.

They're Laugh Specialists

Mitchell and Durant, Broadway laugh specialists, arrive in town tomorrow to appear as an added attraction on the new stage bill at the RKO Keith Boston. They were featured recently with Al Jolson's "Singing Kid."

MADGE DECIDES TO INDULGE IN A NAP

CHAPTER 118

THERE was a wistful note in my husband's voice as he asked me if I didn't miss the things we used to do together before Faith arrived on the scene. I felt an answering tug of my heartstrings. I also experienced a distinctly guilty sensation.

My baby daughter, my young son and his cousin, the supervision of the house, my play and my lyrics for Noel's operetta — all of these had filled my time so completely that Dicky, I realized, had been given comparatively little of my attention.

Some of my neglect had been unnecessary, I told myself flagellatingly. Katherine had sole charge of Faith; the boys were old enough to do with less care; the supervision of the home could be reduced, and I could have arranged work on my play and Noel's operetta so that I would have had time for doing with Dicky some of the things we both loved.

A BETTER WIFE

With sudden nostalgia for the many hours of companionship we had missed, and a resolution to change things when I came back, I drew his head down to mine.

"Please God, Dicky," I whispered, "when I come back, I'm going to be a better wife to you."

"You couldn't be that, sweetheart," he whispered back. "You're perfection now. It's only that I want as much of your society as I possibly can get. I happen to be one of those rare lads who is in love with his own wife. Now, on that word, I'm going to shoo you out of here. Tell me, isn't there going to be a chance for you to take a nap before dinner? You look tired to death."

I considered a second, realized that I had attended to everything, and that I could indeed take a few minutes of rest before I dressed for dinner with my father. I meant to wear a gown that he especially liked, for his last memory of me before leaving on this journey fraught with so much peril. But I would have plenty of time to don it after my nap.

WILL TAKE A NAP

"I hadn't realized it before," I told him, "but thanks to your help with the children, I can take a little nap."

"Then scram this second, before somebody else decides that you're scheduled to do something for him—or her," he admonished. "I think mother, safe in her room, is visiting with the boys, and you ought to be able to sidestep everybody else. On second thought, I'll just shepherd you upstairs and see that you reach the sanctuary undisturbed."

He put his hand beneath my arm and fairly ran out of the room, up the stairs and into my own room, miraculously not meeting anyone. With quick, deft movements, he turned down the bed, lifted me and put me down among the pillows, unheeding my faint protest, "But my dress, Dicky." Stooping, he undid my shoes and took them off.

"You can manage your gown before dinner," he said, "and Katie can press this back into pristine freshness. If you waited to fiddle around with the process of taking a nap according to Hoyle, including what the well-dressed woman wears while napping, you might just as well stay awake. Your scheduled time would be gone before you began. Now tell me, how long do you want to sleep?"

I made a mental calculation. "Three-quarters of an hour."

LOCKS HER IN ROOM

"Make it an hour." He grinned down at me quizzically. "No luck in fractions. Now I'll open the windows, all of them, and lower the shades part way. And when the hour is up, I'll come and waken you myself. How's that?"

"Wonderful," I replied with an answering smile. And when, having opened the windows, he left the room, taking my key with him and locking my door on the outside—he knew that if I needed I could get out the other way through a closet—I repeated the word over and over to myself.

"Wonderful." That was what Dickey's care of me was, not only in this particular instance of thoughtfulness, but in our everyday life.

Luxuriating in the unexpected rest period, I let my mind drift back over my life with my husband, from the high spots of our first romanticism, through the stormy seas and bright sunshine which had alternated in our lives, as in those of most married people, to the peaceful waters of comradeship in which our marital bark was now sailing. I realized that through all the years, even in our stormiest weather, Dickey's care and thoughtfulness for me had been unfailing. And I fell asleep murmuring the word "wonderful."

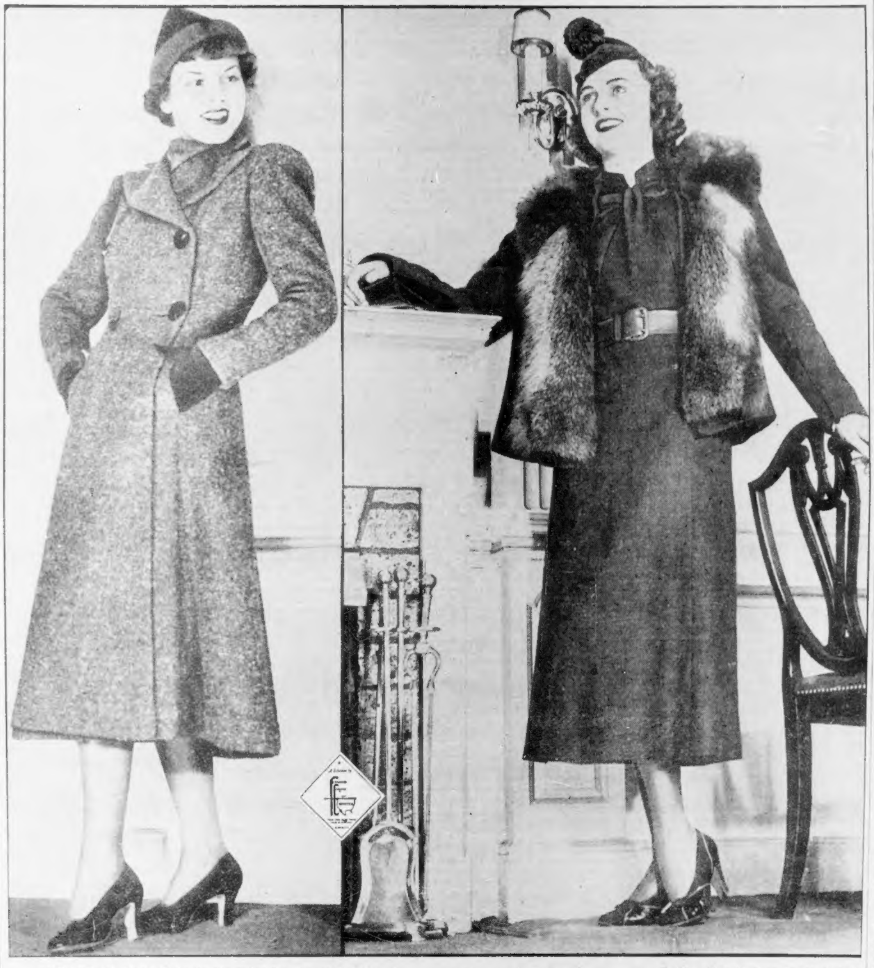
Congress Tags Costumes For Indian Summer Days



THEY'RE IN RHYTHM with the swing into the exhilarating days of Indian summer—these stunning costume suits of the town order that received the Fashion Congress signature of approval. They match the mood of town as it prepares for a festive winter. Perfect costumes from now until the time when frost sends you into your furs. And then the lovely, simple frocks beneath will grace those furs!

They're the kind of costumes that help make autumn in Boston the memorable thing it is—with brilliant leaves from the Gardens drifting in giddy piles on gravel and concrete, with Copley square silhouetted by a sunset backdrop of frosty emerald-jade that turns to sudden purple, and lights winking through the twilight that has in it a good nip of sea-air. For these costume suits are simple enough for daytime downtown, and important enough to stay in when things organize after dark.

Left, Miss Lee Stevenson wears a separate coat-and-frock costume of stone gray (nearly oxford) wool by Rodier. Very tight as to waist, and whoosh! as to fullness. Black leather buttons have an encrusted flying-bird motif. On the very fitted frock beneath, with ascot that shows between the wide lapels, the only speck of trim is in a heavy black leather belt. Schiaparelli inspired the duncecap. An important costume, correspondingly priced.

Bronze green wool, with lots of cross fox—a color combination in which you see the russets and gold and deepened green when late autumn sunlight slants through—is combined in the costume suit modeled by Miss Polly Cotter, right. Much interesting detail, particularly buttons that march down along the shoulder from chin to wrist, on the frock. A green velour turban perches a Pagliacci pompon well up front.

For shopping information on either costume, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Indecision

Contract is no game for men or women who are congenitally or habitually indecisive.

There are, of course, many hands where logic dictates that only a tentative plan of play be adopted — until the deadline for decision comes along. But when it does, it is futile to attempt further stalling.

In today's hand, the declarer had a chance presented him that he should have known would not be repeated, but still he procrastinated.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North: ♠ J 10 9 6 ♡ J 3 4 2 ◇ J ♣ K Q J 8

West: ♠ Q 8 5 4 ♡ K 10 8 6 ◇ 10 9 5 3 ♣ A

East: ♠ A 7 3 2 ♡ Q 7 5 ◇ 8 6 4 ♣ 10 9 3

South: ♠ K ♡ A 3 ◇ A K Q 7 2 ♣ 7 6 5 4 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 N T	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's three notrump bid was made (as are so many notrump bids) because he couldn't think what else to do except pass, which didn't appeal to him. It is too bad that his agressiveness faltered when it came to playing the contract.

West opened the five of hearts and declarer made the good play of dummy's nine. East played the Queen and the Ace won. A small club was then led; West played the Ace and dummy should have played an honor to give the impression that declarer could overtake the eight-spot.

When the K Q J were left blank, West should have rushed to remove the diamond communication card from dummy: it was more than likely that declarer had no other means of re-entering his own hand. West, however, decided to try deception. He led the heart ten on the hope that declarer would play East for the King and consequently fail to cover with dummy's Jack.

Which is precisely what declarer did! Completely overlooking the fact that his only way of entering his own hand was first to win the lead and then to overtake dummy's Jack of diamonds, he allowed the heart deception play to succeed.

Dummy played low, and now West, deciding not to press the hoax too far, shifted to a low spade. East's Ace won and when the blank King fell, a diamond was returned.

Now there was no way to unblock the club suit, and declarer had to be satisfied with his three top diamonds and dummy's three top clubs.

A defeat of two tricks could have been turned into victory by the simple process of recognizing the play of dummy's heart Jack on the second lead of the suit as the only chance.

"GIVE ME YOUR HEART"

A NEW SERIAL

By Lewis Allen Browne

A COSMOPOLITAN PRODUCTION
RELEASED BY WARNER BROTHERS

CHAPTER 32

While he was ordering, Lord and Lady Farrington entered the cocktail room from a doorway far back on the side of the room where Jim and Linda were sitting. Because of this, and because of some palms and a small screen about a serving table, they did not see them.

"Look, Jim—that's Barney Wingate—who's that with him?"

"I am sure I don't know, Bill, but it's likely to be the latest toast on Broadway—or the chief figure in the latest scandal."

The woman turned and Linda recognized her.

"Wrong for once, Jim—it is Hedda Norman, the new picture star. She is lovely."

Jim kept glancing about the room, trying to get a glimpse of Tubbs.

"Barrow has probably gone to get Florence," he said, "and she will take forever getting ready."

"There is no rush at all, Jim, darling."

"Time doesn't mean a thing to most people—as though they could go out and replace minutes and hours."

"I wish I could help you, but I don't know what I can do about it," Linda said, with a gay laugh.

Lord and Lady Farrington crossed to the other side of the cocktail room and took a small table. They began looking about for Tubbs. Linda was engrossed in studying the gown Hedda Norman was wearing.

"Have you just seen a ghost, dear?" Rosamond asked.

Lord Farrington coughed in his napkin, very much ill at ease.

"No, not exactly, Rosamond. I was loking at someone."

"Someone we know?"

"No. That is—I thought at first it was. I was mistaken."

As he spoke he never took his eyes from Linda.

"One often does that, mistakes a stranger for an acquaintance."

"Yes, true enough."

But Lord Farrington knew well enough that he was not mistaken. He knew that he was looking at Linda Warren—or the girl who had been Linda Warren.

"Let's get out, my dear," he said.

Rosamond was surpriesd.

"But we are waiting for Mr. Barrow, Robert."

"We can wait for him outside—it's noisy, stuffy, too much smoke here."

"Mr. Barrow couldn't find us, Robert. I will fix that, I will have a window opened."

Rosamond called a waiter.

"Will you open a window—my husband is English," Rosamond said, "and Englishmen feel that they have to sit in a draft to be comfortable."

"I will start the fan, overhead, Madam."

Lord Farrington was trying to turn around, to take his eyes from Linda.

Just then Linda turned to look for Tubbs and found herself staring straight into the eyes of Lord Farrington!

As Linda stared at Lord Farrington she wondered if her heart would start beating again. She was quite sure that it had stopped.

Jim noticed that she was staring.

"See Mr. Barrow, my dear?" he asked.

The kindliness of his voice brought Linda somewhat back to her senses. He had not noticed her shock. She was grateful for that.

"No—no, I can't see Tubbs. I was just staring—thinking, I mean."

"From your expression, you were thinking big thoughts."

She managed to turn to him and smile, but it was a wan smile. She glanced at the clock back of the cocktail bar—two cocktail glasses for hands, and bottles for numerals.

"Tubbs is fearfully late," she said, nervously.

She wanted to turn again and look at Lord Farrington, but she did not dare. She wondered if he was staring at her. She wondered if he knew she would be there. That was a silly thought, she told herself. It was a mere coincidence. One meets all of one's acquaintances in New York cocktail bars, if they patronize them frequently.

"I wish Tubbsy would hurry, Jim. I shall certainly tell him off when he arrives. Why should we have to meet him HERE, of all places?"

"Ideal meeting places in these modern days, cocktail bars. I thought you rather favored them, Bill."

"Not always."

Lord Farrington began to feel relieved. Linda, he decided, had not recognized him.

Tubbs and Florence were, at this moment, just outside the cocktail room. He took a deep breath.

"Well," he said, "here we go!"

"Don't faint on my hands, Tubbs," Florence warned, with a gay laugh.

"I may at that."

She became serious at once.

Instant Beauty For Your Hair

New Toning Rinse Leaves Tresses Gloriously Soft and Shining

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU are a woman whose hair has lost the lustrous sheen of youth, and you want it to gleam this winter as it hasn't gleamed since childhood, here's a chance to dramatize your crowning glory again.

It's a new beauty entry in the form of a "toning" lotion, and in one quick rinse it removes all traces of soap from past shampoos, dislodges any alkali deposits, and leaves the hair as sleek and shining and as beautifully groomed as a race horse.

Since sleekness of silhouette seems to be the order of the new season, your coiffure must possess a sheen and brilliance all its own. Hair that lies damp and in frightening disarray has no place in any lovely lady's scheme of things today.

Once you have used this extraordinary liquid, the chances are that you will never do without it again. With magic certainty it does away with that dull-as-dishwater look and leaves your tresses so soft and shining that it is a real joy to touch.

It's remarkably simple to use, too. Just dissolve a teaspoonful in a glass of fresh water and pour it over your head. When your hair dries you will discover that it has a new lustre and brilliance which you never dreamed was there, not since a good many birthdays anyway.

If you've forgotten how lovely and shining hair can be in its simon-pure state, do give this lotion a trial. No wonder our memories are poor because few of us can recall ever having seen hair that was absolutely clean. Soaps and shampoos all leave a thin film of hard residue around each hair, which rinsing never seems to remove.

While this lotion is primarily a thing for your hair after a shampoo, you'll find a good many other uses for it too. If you happen to live in a hard water district add a few drops to the water when you wash your face, or rub a little into your hands when you rinse them in cold water. A few drops added to the water in your tub will actually feel softer to the touch.

And last, but by no means least, add a little to the rinsing water in which you wash your silk strockings—and see what happens. We are willing to wager that not only will they look nicer, but they will last longer, too.

If you would like to know the name of this inexpensive double-duty lotion, call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Feeding of Infants

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

DURING the past quarter of a century many notable advances have been made both in the treatment and in the prevention of disease.

But few other branches of medicine have undergone so many changes as have occurred in the care of infants, in "pediatrics," as this specialty is called.

Many of the readers have not forgotten the days when the artificial feeding of a new-born infant was looked upon with great anxiety. That fear was felt is not strange because the death rate of bottle-fed babies was frightfully high. On the other hand, those little ones who had mother's milk thrived and waxed strong.

Today the story is quite different. In many communities, especially in large cities, formula-fed infants is greater than the breast-fed. To all appearances these infants do well, equalling the progress of their conventionally-fed cousins.

MOTHER'S MILK BEST

For many reasons it is best to give the baby mother's milk. There is no perfectly satisfactory substitute for it. In spite of our knowledge of vitamins and the chemistry of foods, the equivalent of mother's milk can not be artificially made.

But when mother's milk is lacking, or is found to be of inferior quality, artificial feeding becomes necessary. Perhaps the mother is seriously ill, or for some other reason the baby cannot be nursed. Nothing is left then to do except to resort to formula feeding.

The first sign of progress was made by safeguarding the milk intended for infant feeding. Today milk delivered to large sections of the country is practically free from germs. Proper milk bottles and nipples, and a better understanding of vitamins and food values have helped safeguard the welfare of artificially-fed infants.

J. C. Barr Takes Stand Against Wife

Concord, N. H., Oct. 7—When his wife left their Ipswich, N. H. home she took "everything without even leaving me enough blankets," James C. Barr, wealthy Boston railroad supplies magnate testified in United States District Court here today when he took the stand in his own defense.

His divorced wife, Mrs. [illegible] F. Barr, 63-year-old New York and Washington society woman, is seeking $100,000 damages and personal property and is acting as her own attorney.

Barr testified his divorced wife never had any articles in his Ipswich home because she took them to her Port Washington summer residence and New York apartment.

"She used to throw enormous parties down there. At Port Washington on some Sundays she had 40 to 60 people there with expensive orchestras providing the music.

"In 1930, when I came home to the New York apartment I found a Russian orchestra and opera singers there.

"While Mrs. Barr is claiming rugs, linens and blankets, she took everything from the house to her Port Washington residence.

PRIMER FOR HARVARD STUDENTS

by ANN MARSTERS

Where to Go and Why, Dispassionately Told

Do you have spots before your eyes? Do you bruise easily? Have you a sinking feeling in the waist?

Ann Marsters

If so, here is something to take your mind off your troubles. Read Ann Marsters' Primer for Harvard Students, Chapter 11. It will not only make you hungry, but it will feed you as well.

Informative, that's what—geographically, gastronomically and gregariously.

It leaves no milestone unturned in its travels hither and yon and around and about. It not only tells you where to go to enjoy an evening of pleasure and such, but it explains what to do about it, and why such is which.

But the thing to do—and this is elementary, my dear Watson—is to read, study and profit thereby.

[illegible] for you, too, can become a Primer Donna.

LESSON 11

C[illegible] Do you know where to go [illegible] and what to expect when you [illegible]

The Broadway may not care for you

THE BROADWAY, upstairs [illegible]. One of the clubs [illegible] it never sees [illegible]. On the [illegible] nights the [illegible] you that [illegible].

THE PENTHOUSE at the [illegible]: Floor show with lots [illegible]. They like you to dine [illegible].

* * *

[illegible]NARD'S TOY LAND, over [illegible] on Tremont street. [illegible]. Music and [illegible] dancing. You can [illegible] for a fairly small sum.

THE COCOANUT GROVE, [illegible] street: Typical night [illegible]. Lou Conrad's [illegible]. Don't linger too long [illegible].

THE VANITY FAIR, New[illegible] street: Gets a smattering [illegible] at night.

THE SANS SOUCI, Tremont street: [illegible] late spot that [illegible].

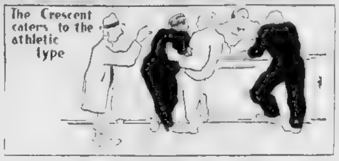
[illegible] Massachusetts [illegible]. The Dorsey band is [illegible]. A lively place [illegible] to dinner before [illegible] to one of the surrounding [illegible].

THE SHERATON ROOM, at [illegible]-Plaza, the Brunswick [illegible] and the Westminster [illegible] will accept you at [illegible]. They'll expect and [illegible] a fair share of you. The Sheraton Room is particularly [illegible] by the girls' mothers.

THE MONARCH CLUB, [illegible] street: A late-at-night [illegible] where you'll be [illegible] with consideration.

You'll seldom be seen at the [illegible], the Headline Club, and the Row Club.

THE TEN FRIENDS CLUB, near Dock square: Not supposed to be a place to take your girl. But some of the debs get a thrill out of going there. Be careful of the bouncer. He hits hard and accurately.



The Crescent caters to the athletic type

THE ROUND UP: A rather rowdy spot uptown. Is glad to have you.

THE BROWN DERBY, Arlington street: Good music and assorted entertainment. But mostly girls and more girls.

* * *

THE BARCLAY, Winchester street: When and if it opens, will be popular with you, as usual. The girls like to go dancing there.

THE WATERFRONT CLUB, T Wharf: Opens soon. Goes in for atmosphere. Will be fairly nice to you. Will have a floor show.

Clubs around Cambridge where you might want to go for some quiet stag drinking, are quite numerous.

THE MAGAZINE A. A., Massachusetts avenue, in North Cambridge: Will endure you if you aren't too obtrusive.

ROMA CLUB, near Kendall square: Will be lenient with you especially on Saturday nights.

INMAN SOCIAL CLUB, near Inman square: Will not be very hospitable to you. Admission by card.

BLUE AND GOLD CLUB, in Central square, and the Peacock in Kendall square, are both resigned to you by this time.

Boston's Harlem mustn't be overlooked. Slade's, the original Slade's on Tremont street, is quite the place for finishing up a late evening. Fried chicken, of course.

The Royal Palms is another "Harlem" spot that Harvard favors. The master of ceremonies, Eddie Dies, sings a song entitled "Tight Lake Trait" — with endless verses.

Nearby is a place called Little Harlem, best known for George, the linguist waiter. His command of the English language will put even you to shame.

* * *

NOW we seem to be approaching one of the greatest problems of the human race, which includes Harvard students, and that is the problem of "Where to Eat."

One gets so tired of the obvious places, doesn't one? So here's a list of quite un-ordinary restaurants.

THE ARARAT, Carver street. Delicious Armenian food. Specialty is shisha-kebab, hearts of chops broiled on open spits before you. Stuffed grapes and stuffed mussels, too. Inexpensive dinners—not more than 75 cents. Ask Coco, who runs the place, to order your dinner for you.

MADAME BOURGUE'S, St. Botolph street: French cooking. Small place and you should call up in advance. Also inexpensive. Delectable hors-d'ouvres and pastries.

THE VIKING, Stuart street: Attractive and the best Swedish food in town.

DINTY MOORE'S, Washington street: More like a place you'd find in New York than in Boston. Grand food. Dandy steak sandwiches.

THE DEN, Hudson street: The place to go in Chinatown. Run by the fascinating Ruby Foo.

Then there are the accepted Harvard favorites which we may have mentioned in a previous lesson: Locke Ober's in Winter Place and Durgin and Parks in the Market district. Also in the Market district is The Old Oyster House. A branch, without the sawdust on the floor, is uptown in the theater district—and at the moment it's right beside "Boy Meets Girl."

* * *

AND now, just by way of advice as to how you ought to act in these various places, I shall tell you a little story which has a moral to it. (You may make up the moral to suit yourself.)

One day a Harvard student was at the Ritz Bar and he took quite a fancy to the little silver spears served in his Martini cocktails. After his fifth Martini, he slipped one of the spears into his pocket. When he got his bill, he found an extra item added at the bottom:

"One spear . . . . $1.00."

So that's the way it is. One chapter right after another. Tomorrow comes No. 12, making an even dozen in all, as good a chapter as you'll ever meet, once you get your teeth into it. So don't go away. Further treats are in store for you.

Beware the late spot Scotch

Crime does not pay — at the Ritz

Snowballed Wife Wins Divorce

Gloucester, Oct. 7—Because her husband threw snowballs at her in a fit of rage last winter, Mrs. Avis M. Gibson, 24, won a divorce from him in Salem court.

Judge Edward B. O'Brien granted her an uncontested decree after she had petitioned charging James A. Gibson with cruel and abusive treatment.

Sidewalk Program Fails

MEN, TRUCKS MISSING

By ALAN C. FRAZER

The collapse of the Works Progress Administration's sidewalks program is an illuminating chapter in the record of New Deal inefficiency and waste, as revealed by facts and figures gathered today by the Boston Evening American.

In view of the fact that the relief organization has announced a new program of sidewalk construction, with the old projects only one-third completed, the story of past events in this undertaking is impressive.

Yankees Pull Ninth Inning Plug: Drop Giants Down Drain

THE NEW YORK Yankees stormed the peaks of glory, scaled the ramparts of bliss and all that sort of chit-chat, which is a way of saying in our World Series dialect that they are champions in their line of work for the fiscal year.

Austen Lake

Yes, the Giants topped off the [illegible] down, mired down in the [illegible] and lost the sixth and deciding game of the 1936 World Series in what we news people, for purposes of [illegible] our pieces, like to [illegible] as a "typical Yankee upheaval" [illegible] on bums as recently as last May.

The score was 13 to 5, but it was as nifty a contest as ever graced these pleasant autumn reunions until it came apart like a soggy shoe-box in that final, shall I say, cataclysmic ninth. Yes, I'll say cataclysmic.

[illegible]

[illegible]

* * *

BRAINS DEPARTMENT WORKS

TERRY MADE a public display of managerial brains during the seventh inning, when he was on third base with what might have been the tieing run of the ball game. There was one out at the time and during a lull, when the Yankees were shooing Gomez out of the box and leading Murphy in, Bill got permission to stroll down to the mouth of his cave and nominate a set of pinch hitters

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

* * *

FLIGHTY FAME FLITS

IT IS BY such slim margins that a man misses fame and immortality in the little record books, to which we authors go for our gems of anecdotes when we want to remember when. But Koenig blinked at that third strike with the bases full, instead of biffing it into some faraway angle of the park and flying around the corners amid a snowfall of torn paper and the banzais of the people who seemed Giant sympathisers in a ratio of 99 to 1. And, when last looked at, Koenig was shouldering his bat and marching back to the bench and to athletic oblivion, whence he may never appear again in these classic games.

[illegible]

* * *

COMES THE REVOLUTION

THE YANKEE explosion was touched off by Manager Bill in person. Joe DiMaggio, proportioned like a college fullback, was caught between third and home soon after the Yankee ninth opened. And, as he seesawed back and forth on the base line Terry heaved the ball across the field to third, instead of to the plate where his second string catcher, Danning, was waiting. This type of play always calls for the throw being made to the station farthest in advance of the runner, so he may be chased backward toward his original post at a minimum of risk. The tactic is familiar to every schoolboy

[illegible]

It was the first of the Yankees' seven runs and from then on the game was less of a refined science than a fresh air frolic among barefoot urchins on a health farm with the Yankees wearing gutters in the base paths from the frequency of their passage. [illegible] World Series record [illegible]

[illegible] ... devoted as their creator's gifted grain.

SECRET Sessions for TEAM

PREPARING FOR DARTMOUTH

By WALTER KILEY

Worcester, Oct. 7—An unusual air of secrecy surrounds Dr. Eddie Anderson's Holy Cross football sessions on Mt. St. James.

Special Officer Tim Collins [illegible] practice [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

5000 Tickets

There are still a few tickets remaining of the Holy Cross allotment of 5000. These are going fast. Saturday has been declared a holiday and the student body will be Hanover-bound intact. Several parties are being planned. Saturday is to be a festive occasion, festive, that is, if Holy Cross wins.

[illegible]

I'd take a 7 to 6 victory right this minute," he states. "I'll breathe a lot easier when this game is over. Frankly, we want to win."

[illegible]

Foils Camera

[illegible]

"If anything happened to either of them, we'd be sunk" he said.

[illegible]

Kuziora has been a sensation against Bates and Providence. I feel that he is going to come through with flying colors. I think that if he can get confidence enough in himself he may break up this Dartmouth ball game any minute. I'm gambling that he is on the threshold of finding himself," says Anderson.

[illegible] at center.

LEN KUZIORA, veteran senior right halfback, will start for Holy Cross against Dartmouth next Saturday afternoon at Hanover in the first big New England college clash of the year. Dr. Eddie Anderson has great faith in Kuziora and figures that he will be one of the big stars of the year. Saturday will tell the story.

TROUBLE FOR AUTOISTS

Hanover Traffic Arrangements Very Poor

By BILL GRIMES

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 7—Far be it from me to start "shilling" for [illegible]

The Boston and Maine will operate special trains out of Boston and Worcester. It will be a non-stop run out of Boston leaving at 9 from the North Station and arriving at Hanover-Norwich depot at [illegible]

The Worcester special is scheduled to pull out of the Heart of the Commonwealth at 9.15 and is [illegible]

[illegible] dining cars on both of [illegible] and the coaches will [illegible]

[illegible] will make the trip in four hours, while the Boston special leaves at 6.30 and [illegible] Station at [illegible]

Judging from the demand for tickets and the tremendous interest being displayed over this game, the Dartmouth-Holy Cross tilt will be played before a record breaking crowd.

[illegible]

[illegible] to get out of town and it was always a slow, nerve wracking drive

Special Trains Put on for H. C. Game

[illegible]

"We can handle the crowd," declared Chief Hallisley, "but for the life of me I can't understand why motorists insist upon spending five hours on the roads to get here from Boston and know that they are to be confronted with a six or seven hour trip home, when by train for less than it costs to operate an automobile, they can make the round trip in six hours.

"Until very recently we could park cars by the hundreds fairly close to the field, but Hanover has grown of late and on Saturday we'll be obliged to send the visitors way up the Lyme road and possibly across the Norwich bridge. There'll be no parking allowed on Main street and just as soon as the side streets on which we'll park on one side only are filled we'll start the traffic out to the remote parts of the town, and believe me, they'll be remote

Yawkey Pennant Hopes Ranked Very Low

By JOE CASHMAN

New York, Oct. 7—In revising the World Series record book today to incorporate the many new slugging marks set by the champion Yankees during the civil war with the Giants, one would be wise to use pencil.

For the McCarthy maulers promise to be back no later than next fall blasting out bigger and better figures [illegible]

[illegible]

The big majority of the new champs are under 30 and will get better. Joe DiMaggio, Frank Crosetti, "Red" Rolfe and Jake Powell, first-class performers now, are due to become outstanding stars.

[illegible]

Sox Outclassed

[illegible]

This Giant team without changes couldn't finish in the money again. Nobody realizes this better than Boss Bill Terry. He plans to tear the club apart this winter and start rebuilding from the ground up around Hubbell, Fitzsimmons, Schumacher, Ott, Bartell, Moore and Ripple.

[illegible]

[illegible] to suffer a decisive licking and they got it. They would have been knocked off in five games [illegible]

[illegible]

A final score was never more misleading than that 13-5 count.

For eight innings, you wouldn't have wagered a plugged nickel on either side.

The [illegible] didn't come until the [illegible] Yanks' siege guns

[illegible] and seven runs over the plate to [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] eight games.

It also gave the McCarthy murderers a total of 65 hits, a new high for a six game title engagement, permitted them to set a [illegible] and wiped out the record they had set for [illegible] scoring last Friday.

[illegible]

The goats should be forgotten this year. Greater players than any of these Terrymen ever were or will be would have flopped in the face of the Yanks' Big Berthas.

Series

Crowd Record Still Intact

New York, Oct. 7 (U.S.)—The smallest crowd of the series [illegible] paid $169,213 to see the Yankees beat the Giants, and win the world title.

This brought the total attendance for the six games to [illegible] and the receipts to $1,[illegible]

The total attendance did not equal the World Series record of [illegible] set in the seven game series between the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals in [illegible]

The commissioner's share yesterday was $[illegible].95, and the two contending clubs and the two leagues split $143,831.05.

The players' pool accumulated in the first four games of the series amounted to $[illegible]

SHAMROCKS AT THE HIVE

MEET Pittsburgh TONIGHT

LEAGUE LEAD AT STAKE

By MURRAY KRAMER

The Shamrocks will play hosts to Pittsburgh tonight at National League Field, starting at 8:15, and no pink tea party is anticipated.

With the league leadership at stake, there is apt to be plenty of action under the kilowatts this evening.

As the situation now stands the Shamrocks have two victories against no defeats while the [illegible] Americans were [illegible] in their only league game against Syracuse.

And [illegible] club showed one of the greatest last half drives in pro football history.

[illegible] aerial attack that bewildered [illegible] so that four touchdowns swept right by them to permit the Americans to win 27 to 16.

Coach Ready

Coach Kenneally [illegible] invaders, though, [illegible] scouted against the Chiefs [illegible] ability to stop [illegible] attack.

There will [illegible] Shamrocks starting lineup [illegible] winning [illegible]

Open Game

The Shamrocks opened up twice in the first half but played conservative football in the last two periods to protect a seven point lead. They also realized that it would be foolhardy to throw a wet ball around as the last half was played in the rain.

Given a dry surface [illegible] are apt to see the wide open game professional football advertises itself to be.

REVIVE Old Booster SPIRIT

WESTERN VIEWS

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER
Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, Oct. 7 (US) — The prevailing winds of popular optimism throughout the country particularly suit the California temperament.

There is a renaissance of the old booster spirit, and the social utility of a yes-saying doctrine is not to be questioned at least until recovery has advanced to a stage of full employment of labor at high effective wages.

Dominant opinion in California among business interests is that the near-term future holds out the prospect of further improvement. Were it not for political and labor uncertainties, good cheer would be even more unrestrained.

In these days of hunger for precise statistical data on every conceivable subject, an attempt has been made out here graphically to represent the rising curve of California business sentiment.

A comprehensive head count among California business executives, which has just been completed by an investment house, discloses the average belief that Pacific coast business for the coming six months will show gains of from 10.4 per cent to 13.4 per cent over the same period of the previous year, that 8.2 per cent more people will be employed, and that total payrolls will rise 11.6 per cent.

This is the second semi-annual poll conducted by this investment house, and its first one six months ago called the turn with great exactitude.

In the new interchange of expectations, 90.4 per cent of all contributors expected a gain in their own business, only 2.2 per cent anticipate a decrease and 3 per cent look for no shift. Seventy-five per cent of these executives queried expect increased employment in their respective lines of activity, and 81 per cent predict larger payrolls.

LEWIS HANEY ON RELIEF

Permanent System
CONTROLLING VOTES
Blow to Democracy

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics, New York University)

New York, Oct. 7—Two recent incidents as reported in the press are of great significance.

One is the seizure of certain offices by a gang of Works Progress Administration workers.

The other is the virtual discharge of a man who was discovering fraud in the operation of the Works Progress Administration.

According to newspaper accounts, a gang of men and women, among whom a Joseph Kalinsky was prominent, went to the offices of the "federal art project" in New York City.

They demanded that jobs be given to them as artists and artists' models. The director informed them that no jobs were available.

The gang proceeded to take possession, informing the director that they would stay till they got the sort of art work they wanted (of course, at regular wages).

Meanwhile, another gang of 11 Works Progress Administration guards watched the performance.

Finally, some of the artists went out to get food. The police were then called and dragged out the remainder, incidentally injuring Kalinsky's eye.

Here we find a gang of men and women demanding that the federal government give them jobs at regular wages. This is regardless of whether anybody wants what they propose to do, or not. It is also regardless of whether they are qualified to do the job.

We find that the work relief system breeds a condition of insolent dependence. There was no pretense of earning the wage by contributing a product of equal value. But still the wage was demanded as a right.

We find bureaucracy!

First, you note that this "federal art project" occupied a whole floor in a New York City building.

Second, you note that eleven (11) "Works Progress Administration guards" were hanging around, each drawing his pay. Of course, there was a nicely paid "director" in charge.

The "resignation" of Colonel W. E. Hoyer from his position as director of the New York City Works Progress Administration unit throws further light on the work relief system of the New Deal.

Under a former local Works Progress Administration director, the colonel had formed a unit of 11 persons to investigate the operation of the system. He found and reported that many alleged relief workers were giving bogus addresses. Further disclosures of fraud and waste were threatened.

So the Works Progress Administration officials ignored his report and kept his force in idleness. Thus the colonel had to resign.

Here we find fraud and waste in the operation of a bureaucratic relief work system.

Worst of all, we find that the bureaucracy will not tolerate criticism or checking. This is always the case and is one of the most serious dangers.

ASSETS Of Amoskeag GAIN

INCREASE OVER $4,000,000

The assets of the Amoskeag Company, a holding concern closely identified with the defunct Amoskeag Manufacturing Company of Manchester, N. H., increased more than $4,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, it reported today.

Marketable value of the net assets, other than the securities of the manufacturing company was reported at $10,363,664 as of September 30.

Said Frederic C. Dumaine, Sr., treasurer of the holding company and one-time $100,000 a year treasurer and managing director of the huge textile manufacturing company:

"With sufficient money to pay all bonds in full, the recommendation in the report of Arthur Black, special master, (of the federal court at Boston, who presided over the manufacturing company's liquidation proceedings) that bonds held by those other than the Amoskeag Company be given priority, becomes immaterial, and there will probably be no opportunity to have his report passed upon by the court."

Dumaine further said: "The 90,181 common shares of Amoskeag Manufacturing Company in the company's portfolio are carried at no value. In the final liquidation it is expected these shares will have some small value."

The affairs of the manufacturing company are currently under investigation by the Sabath Congressional bondholders' protective committee.

The Amoskeag's physical assets recently were sold to a group of Manchester, N. H., business men for $5,000,000.

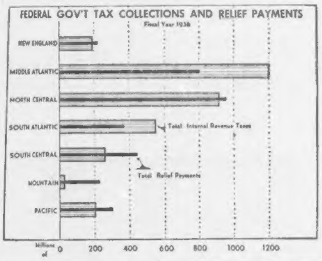
Internal Tax Collections



For the fiscal year of 1936 the Federal Government collected a total of $3,448,302,870 in internal revenue taxes. Also, out of the $4,800,000 relief appropriation the Federal Government paid to the individual states $3,426,564,515.

The chart shows by regions how internal revenue tax collections compare with the federal relief funds spent.

The Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States were the only two sections of the country to show tax collections in excess of relief expenditures.

This was due to the large amount of corporation taxes collected in the Middle Atlantic States, particularly in Delaware, where many of the companies are incorporated. Then again tobacco taxes are heavy in the South Atlantic States of North Carolina and Virginia.

2D AMOSKEAG
30 P. C. Dividend

On October 17, trustees of Amoskeag Manufacturing Company will pay a second liquidating dividend of 30 per cent on the company's 6 per cent bonds, except those owned by Amoskeag Company, and on the merchandise and general claims. With the initial 30 per cent dividend paid on September 28, total payments will be brought to 60 per cent.

Within a few days, and before the October 15 deadline, it is expected that Amoskeag Industries, Inc., will pay over $4,500,000 to the trustees to complete its $5,000,000 payment for the Manchester properties of Amoskeag Manufacturing Company. Once these funds are in hand, another liquidating dividend should soon be announced.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR WILL?

Everyone who owns property should make a will. You may have made yours already. If so, you naturally want it to conform to your wishes today.

If you have made a will, we strongly urge you to re-read your will now. Then ask yourself these questions:

1. If your estate has decreased in value, what effect will the specific bequests you have made in your will have on the residue?
2. Does your will provide for persons no longer living?
3. Does your will fail to name children or others whom you now wish to provide for?
4. Does your will create a Trust for the protection of those who would be benefited by such provision?
5. Is there any reason to change the Executor whom you have named in your will?

Your family lawyer can help you in answering these questions, for he can tell you whether your will properly fits conditions as they are today and he can also show you how to make any changes you may desire, either by the addition of a codicil to your present will or by a clause in a new will, if one is necessary.

★ ★ ★

If you have not yet made a will, or if you are contemplating the revision of a will drawn in the past, there is information in our booklet, "Wills and Trusts," which you may find of distinct value. A copy will be sent promptly upon request.

Palmer FORECASTS Profit

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

When the New Haven swings into the profits column it is just about the final test of railroad recovery in this country. And President-Trustee Howard S. Palmer expects final September figures will show the road in-the-black.

It is not that the New Haven represents the poorest of railroads but that the southern New England carrier is operating under the most difficult circumstances.

In the first place it is decidedly dependent on passenger traffic and in the second place the trustees in bankruptcy are putting the physical road in first class condition and this naturally calls for extremely heavy maintenance expenditures. However, Mr. Palmer says that September gross was up 14 per cent, a most gratifying performance, and he expects a small profit balance will result.

The English pound continues to slide toward the $4.50 mark looked on as the new theoretical par. Domestic markets, however, are not shocked by the development despite the political haze at home. One of the chief contributors to the pound's weakness is the appetite of Englishmen for American securities. Home securities are apparently considered quite high and better opportunities are visioned here. At the same time transfers of funds to America at this time circumvent depreciation and are expected to show a neat profit before the year is out.

* * *

Notebook: The above represents the factual side of the pound dollar relationship . . . Now for the sidelights . . . Personally we can not understand just why the pound should be allowed to depreciate . . . The only reason we have heard is that England thinks it too dear in terms of dollars . . . Hardly solid reasoning . . . From an American point of view it raises a barrier to domestic exports throughout the sterling area . . . And we think it would be a perfectly wonderful idea if Mr. Morgenthau started to defend the pound against the theories of Englishmen . . . Since they seem to have a much more tangible program than the Russians.

* * *

The sell-on-strength crowd that came to the financial district primed for action Monday are an enlightened, though much sadder, group today. They have discovered that when a spring is compressed it acquires the peculiar trait of jumping straight up in the air the moment it is released. The rise has been speedy and soon will require some correction. But we do not believe it will either be serious or protracted. Straight sales are not for us and we suggest that if readers make them they do so only for switching purposes.

* * *

Bits o' Gossip: Cluett-Peabody earnings estimate are positively exhilarating . . . Western Maryland preferred is in favor . . . Niles-Bement-Pond earnings for the first three quarters are said to be well in excess of the full-year results in 1935 . . . A big extra dividend on Coca Cola is expected before the year is out . . . U. S. Smelting would benefit from a rise in lead prices . . . Which some observers forecast . . . Better than $6 per share is the word we get on Sears Roebuck earnings . . . A generous extra on National Steel is looked for before the turn of the year . . .

STOCK MARKET

Prices CLOSE Mixed

New York, Oct. 7—After a fast upward sortie into new high territory for the past 5 years, the stock market backed up in the final hour today and closed with trends decidedly indefinite.

A break of about 5 points or so in Douglas Aircraft on an unsatisfactory earnings statement, combined with profit taking elsewhere, helped unsettle the list. Turnover was the largest since early in the year.

Continuance of favorable economic developments inspired an early buying rush that put the ticker tape behind floor transactions. Many industrials and specialties got up fractions to 2 or more points at their best.

After noon utilities came to life and again pressed the price recording facilities of the stock exchange. The pace slowed on the intermediate selling interludes.

Stocks out in front most of the day included American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Electric Power & Light, American Power & Light, Texas Corp., Socony Vacuum, Goodyear, Goodrich, Certain-Teed, Murray Corp., and Owens-Illinois Glass.

In the backward division were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Boeing, Bendix, Schenley, Deere, American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Santa Fe, Illinois Central, Delaware & Hudson, Northern Pacific, Electric Auto-Lite, Loew's, American Chain and Celanese.

A shade on either side were N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Electric, Western Union, American Can and Westinghouse.

Wheat at Chicago was off 1⅛ to 1½ cents a bushel and corn yielded ⅛ to ¾.

Bonds were in demand. Commodities were mixed.

Mixed Topics

Sterling again pointed lower in foreign exchange transactions. The decline was attributed partly to renewed purchases of American securities by London as well as the repatriation of funds from the British Metropolis by the former gold bloc countries. French francs were also down moderately.

Wall Street read with much satisfaction the mid-week review of "Iron Age" which placed current steel ingot output at 75½ per cent of capacity and pointed out this industry is entering the final quarter with the largest unfilled orders since 1929.

A helpful influence for the recently lagging utility shares were the figures released by the Edison Electric Institute disclosing electric power production for the week ended October 3, recorded a slightly more than seasonal increase over the preceding period.

Issues of electrical appliance manufacturing concerns received attention on reports sales in this line for 1936 will surpass last year's aggregate by an exceptionally big margin.

Deport Alien Reds! Rescind The Recognition of Soviet Russia

THE fact that Communism—nurtured by Soviet Russia—is seeking to destroy the free institutions of America is not to be denied.

Neither is the shameful fact to be denied that COMMUNISTS are supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt for re-election in 1936 IN ORDER TO BUILD A REVOLUTIONARY "PEOPLES FRONT" IN 1940.

Mr. Roosevelt has said that he repudiates this support. But what has he done to prove that he repudiates it?

Russian Communism in America can be officially repudiated only by two courses of executive action:

1—By immediately deporting all alien Communists, as the law requires; and

2—By immediately rescinding the recognition of Soviet Russia.

The Voters Will Draw Own Conclusions

COLONEL FRANK KNOX, Republican vice-Presidential nominee, speaking Monday in Boston, his native city, asked President Roosevelt to explain why Communists want him re-elected.

And, without waiting for the answer that Mr. Roosevelt has so far shown no disposition to supply, Colonel Knox offered the suggestion that the New Deal and the Communist ships might be following parallel courses.

Revolution—bloody, civil or otherwise—is the goal of every Communist outside of Russia. Each disciple of Lenin and follower of Stalin shares a mighty hatred for the successful and well-to-do, for courts and constituted authority, and for the democratic congresses of democratic people.

Significantly, Communism's evil trinity—class hatred, contempt for judicial authority and disdain for the will of elected representatives of the people—is also the evil trinity of the New Deal and its spokesmen.

Realizing this, Colonel Knox said:

"Read the words of Mr. Henry Wallace about a bloodless destruction of our Constitution.

"Read the words of Mr. Rexford Tugwell about the anger that should drive the farmers and laborers to take over government in the United States.

"Read the slurs on the Supreme Court.

"Read the 'must' orders to Congress. AND DRAW YOUR OWN CONCLUSIONS."

ONE man who has drawn his own conclusions is Earl Browder, Communist presidential candidate and leader of the Communist Party in America.

In Boston Sunday, twenty-four hours before Colonel Knox's address, Mr. Browder delivered what might be called an address FOR Roosevelt and AGAINST Governor Landon.

Said he:

"Landon and Knox MUST be defeated at all cost.

"OUR Farmer-Labor party is just beginning to take shape. It has not yet won its political independence.

"In its largest part, IT IS SUPPORTING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, though not, thank God, the Democratic Party."

In other words, by strong inference, Mr. Browder would have all good Communists know that a vote for him is pretty much a vote thrown away, that Governor Landon must be defeated and Mr. Roosevelt re-elected.

And, also by strong inference, Mr. Browder strives to make it plain that whether or not Mr. Roosevelt accepts him and his Communists, he and his Communists accept Mr. Roosevelt.

THE people of Massachusetts, New England and the nation now have Colonel Knox's WARNING and Communist Chief Browder's PROOF of that warning.

Though the Democratic Party is not necessarily welcome to the followers of Moscow, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS WELCOME. No less an authority than the head of the Communist Party gives this assurance to a Boston audience that paid well for it.

And on November Third, as Colonel Knox suggests, the rank and file of the people who still preserve faith in America and Americanism will draw THEIR own conclusions.

Life Sentences to Jobs

THE United States Civil Service Commission has stressed the fact that the number of Federal employes under the merit system has reached the highest total since 1919, or 498,725, an increase of 43,000 in the past fiscal year.

The commission does not stress the fact, however, that this figure is only 60 per cent of the total number of government employes, whereas in 1932, last year of the Republican administration, the employes under the merit system comprised 80 per cent.

The plain truth is that the New Deal has caused the enactment of at least 15 laws specifically suspending application of the Civil Service laws, and has by this means created an army of nearly 300,000 political henchmen.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

This isn't religion. Nor the patter of any creed. Simply a surety that has been growing in me with the years until it is as much a part of my common life as red earth, brown bread, white water.

A conviction that we weren't meant to be limited as we are—handicapped by fear and ignorance and pain . . . but were meant to be happy, wise, strong, brave, free! And could be if we'd just believe we could!

"Odd" McIntyre's back of those words—as he's back of so much that's fine and comforting. He was speaking of those brief, bright releases that come to all of us when, suddenly, our human weakness drops away, and for an instant we tap strange, new stores of strength. Joyce Kilmer's lovely poem, "Trees," he said, was written at such a time. Caught, miraculously, out of the blue—set down, word for word, without altering.

James Whitcomb Riley, too, sometimes found his way into that larger, lovelier life. "It was," wrote 'Odd,' "his chiefest security that somewhere, just beyond man's feeble gropings, were beauty and culture of which he had never dreamed."

There, I believe, is the deepest truth in our human life.

A FUNDAMENTAL FACT

Don't take my word for it—read your history. How has Man achieved his greatest feats . . . made his most revolutionary discoveries? Not by technical training . . . not by proven logic . . . but by those swift and sudden clutches at a strength and wisdom which lie beyond our ordinary comprehension.

"SOMEWHERE . . . BEAUTY AND CULTURE OF WHICH HE HAD NEVER DREAMED."

A crudely scratched drawing of a buffalo, etched with flint on the wall of a Neanderthal man's cave dwelling, thousands of years before the first recorded human history begins . . . how did it happen? Whence came that first, vague hunger for pictorial expression in an ape-like mind that had known only brute lust and fear?

Out of that SOMEWHERE.

The discovery of germ life—the unearthing, at least, of the source of agony which had devastated the race—the triumph of science over superstition—where was the vision born which lay behind that triumph?

In that same SOMEWHERE.

Our human life is NOT bounded by our ignorance and fear.

FAITH IS THE KEY

We are NOT the sum of our five senses . . . helpless combinations of bone, muscle, blood, tissue, with a future as hopeless as the brutes we rule . . .

"We are the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be—"

But this is sure—a man is as tall and as wide and as deep as the dimensions of his own faith, his own audacity! When the Neanderthal ape-man dreamed of drawing—HE DREW. When Pasteur dreamed of healing the unhealable—he HEALED. When Marconi and Edison believed that time and space could be conquered—THEY WERE CONQUERED.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU DARE TO BE. SOMEWHERE THERE IS ALL YOU NEED . . . ALL YOU CAN IMAGINE . . . ALL YOU DARE TO TAKE. The key to it? The same key which opened the door for those others—FAITH.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Oct. 7—Many believe the present theatrical season is to be the Supreme Testing Period and its success or failure will be used as a gauge in future productions. There's no denying the legitimate is wobbly but it has shown marvelous vitality.

O. O. McIntyre

The Rialto is not to have so many shows this year. The fly-by-night turkey opuses have become entirely too hazardous. Nearly all the shoe-string boys who made life such a headache for the Gilbert Gabriels have turned to other tricks of petty pillaging.

It is safe to say that in the weeding out process there will be left, even though small, the finest array of smartly produced and excellently cast entertainment in years. It will be a choice season for the discriminating play goer who wants to see the entire list.

The astute producer knows the stage as it was before the talkies will never come back. To survive he must provide extraordinary fare. And there's a handful of the forthright impresarios, such as Brock Pemberton, Arthur Hopkins and Sam Harris, left who appear to be planning to do just that.

A heigh ho avenue couturiere whose gown was admired by the observing stylist, Lois Long, replied with a sniff: "Oh, this is only a Rotten Banana." She explained that just as the Italian fruit cart women have to eat the rotten bananas that remain unsold, so she had to wear her "stickers."

There's a tacky place on 9th avenue in the 20's under the high-spun El where Lemon Butter is sold at ten cents a jar. Also all sorts of unusual preserves, quince, gooseberry, yellow tomato. A Dickensy lady puts them up in back of the shop, no two in the same style jar. Nothing to my notion sounds so appetizing and luring as Lemon Butter.

And we wonder if New Yorkers ever heard of Brewis, a hayfield libation made of water, molasses and ginger. It must be out of a jug kept in the spring house until cool."

There's a despairing young writer, a lover of color, gaiety and life, who keeps much within himself because of editorial diffidence. The other day I saw a dazzling tie I thought might please and sent it to his Patchin Place address. Today came this panegyric: "Something mysteriously marvelous has happened to me. New fires are kindled in my heart, a new youth garbed in tumultuously beautiful glory. In short the promise of moments when my vanity will shine in undeserved gorgitude. I am pleased, proud. I laugh and go forth to conquer." A bright tie affects many that way. I always want to skip gutters and yodel.

Charles Francis Coe, known to intimates as "Socker," is one of the few writers of fight fiction who knows how to handle his dukes expertly. He was in his U. S. Navy days of championship calibre. Another writer who showed fistic prowess was Albert Payson Terhune said by none other than James J. Corbett to be one of the best boxers he ever faced.

Coe has a Sunday left. But literature interested him more and it was a wise course. He has made his fight knowledge pay handsomely in magazines, books and movies. One of his closet friends is Gene Tunney.

They were powwowing about one of the open-collared, pipe-smoking, philosophic poseurs and his strain for whimsy and the folksy flair. And someone recalled Carl Van Doren's idoloclastic line: "He got mellow before he got ripe."

British seamen are noted for calm. I was thinking today of a crossing in the Aquatania in a 75-mile gale, the ship upending and shivering down. As I swayed down a companion way a cabin steward cheerioed: "A bit tippy, sir."

From one of the jaunty jongleurs:

Said Roscoe Peacock to Ursula Parrot
You're not as clever as Cora Jarrett.

'Dear Govt.'

By Winston Norman

Mr. Roosevelt
U. S. Govt
Dear Pres. Roosevelt:

I have took pen in hand to tell you the latest campain joak, Mr. Pres. I see in the papers where the Republicans says that a lot of Comunists is behind you in the Campain. That is a very funny joak, I think, becauze if they wasent Dumb Republicans they would of found it out before this.

Well, Mr. Pres, if I was you I wouldent feel imbaressed about getting some Comunist help. You didn't ast for it, and the Comunists isn't helping you becauze they like you. So your skirts is perfeckly clean.

I was talkin to one of the Comrads on my WPA projeck today, and I says, "Shame on you Comunists," I says. "After all the nise things Mr. Roosevelt done for you, why do you have to go & vote for him? Your vote make it look like you was a friend of his," I says.

"Tut tut, Comrad," he says, "We arent no friend of a capatalist like Mr. Roosevelt. We're just voteing for him to keep the WPA going, it's a good way to make Money."

"But my goodness," I says, "I always thought that you Comunists was oppozed to Money."

"We are," he says, "but we will take it is the WPA gives it to us."

So then he told me what Comunists does with their WPA money, Mr. President. First they fill up their stummicks, and then they save the rest of their Govt Money, so as they can overthrow the Govt.

"But that is a dirty trick," I says, real mad. "You take Mr. Roosevelts money, and then you over-throw him with it, do you?" I says.

"Oh no," he says, "us Comrads won't never hurt Mr. Roosevelt. It will take us more than 4 years to over-throw the Govt, and Mr. Roosevelt will be all finished by that time."

That made me feel good, Mr. President. I seen that you, personal, would be O. K. when the over-throwing begun. We might even have a Republican President by then, and that would be another funny joak on the G. O. P. So cheer up, Mr. Pres, and in the meanwhile every little Vote counts, they all look the same in the Ballot Box.

Yours truely,
W. NORMAN.

Doctors View Hypnotism

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Hypnotism, which is nothing more than the producing of artificial sleep, is an old Persian custom. The magi of King Cyrus' court knew all about it, as did the yogi of India, long before the Viennese physician Mesmer broke it on Europe about 1780.

Edwin C. Hill

The doctors at Bellevue Hospital in New York tried an experiment on an amnesia victim several weeks ago, mesmerizing him into giving a name and an address. It does not entirely spoil a good story to say that, while the name he gave corresponded with the initials on his tie clasp, it was not his real name. The address he gave happened to be the site of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Hypnotism is not uncommon in medicine, and the Russians claim to be using it now as a treatment to ease the pain of childbirth. The method there is for the doctor to fix his glance on the patient and repeat steadily to her that she is to fall into "a deep, deep sleep."

"I shall count ten," he says, "and you will be asleep. You only want to sleep. It is dark in your eyes. You are sleeping a quiet sleep."

NOT A SVENGALI

The procedure takes ten minutes.

A doctor in Ohio said that he, too, had employed hypnotism in such a case and intended to use it in others. In answer to the Russians and to the Ohio doctor, Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Association Journal, remarks that such experiments are rather old stuff. It was done 30 or 35 years ago, says Dr. Fishbein, and he is sceptical of its efficacy.

"Hypnotism as an endeavor to alleviate the pains of childbirth," he says, "has not been found successful except in the case of hysterical individuals who have been repeatedly hypnotized and are, therefore, especially amenable to the power of suggestion."

Hypnotism is neither mysterious nor dreadful, as is commonly believed, such belief having risen from the liberties which imaginative writers have taken with a scientific subject. To mention, to the average person, hypnotism, conjures up in his mind a fearsome, bearded demon in the guise of a man—Svengali in the flesh.

It is a fact that in Germany, in recent years, several persons have been convicted and sent to prison for using a hypnotic influence on others, to compel them to commit crimes, or to swindle the victims out of their money. There have been defenses of "hypnotic influence" put forward by the accused in homicide cases in this country.

However, physicians generally hold that a person in the artificial sleep will not carry out any suggestion which is hostile to their normal instincts. In other words, only a person with a character prone to murder would attempt such a crime under a hypnotic spell.

In the good old days of vaudeville and medicine shows, the hypnotist was a great attraction. The gallery gods looked on in awe and the plutocrats of the dress circle looked on in feigned skepticism while "the Professor" put his stooges through their paces. Few in the audiences realized that the feats were not at all remarkable and that little or no faking was requried except where the element of humor was introduced.

Tragedy stalked the stage of a small theater in New Jersey, in 1909, when the subject came out of his trance too soon and died—presumably as the result of a particular experiment in which the hynotist stood on the abdomen of the subject, whose body was suspended between two chairs.

A MODERN MESMER

At the present time, France is making much of a Greek named Aris, whose hypnotic feats seem to be based on the claim of Mesmer that by means of a magnetic fluid in the body an individual is able to impose his will upon another.

Our Greek friend has all the appearance of a stage performer—black beard, bristling hair and penetrating eyes. His seances, in which his medium is a girl with the strange name, Fakara, are reported to be most interesting and exciting.

For all of that, the French Academy has condemned public exhibitions of hypnotism, charging that they tend to stimulate neurotic tendencies, excite abnormal curiosities and "give the false impression that hypnosis permits the outside will to operate upon the deportment of others, which is contrary to the truth."

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

President Roosevelt resents insinuations that his administration has been working hand in glove with Red Russia. He says the issue of Communism is a "red herring" in this campaign. He says he repudiates the support of any advocate of Communism. There is an old, old adage that "ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS" and there is at least one act of the Roosevelt Administration which literally shrieks the philosophy of Communism.

Did you know that the New Deal Administration—President Roosevelt's administration—has been trying to confiscate property in the United States for the Soviet government of Russia? Did you know that our Roosevelt government has gone into the Federal Courts and has tried to get them to enforce a decree of the Soviet government confiscating the New York bank accounts of two Russian insurance companies? That's a fact. It's a matter of record in the Federal Courts of the Second Circuit of New York State.

Federal District Judge Coxe, on November 28, 1934, and the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, on August 10, 1936, both ruled against the government. They held in substance that CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY IS CONTRARY TO THE PUBLIC POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES AND IS A VIOLATION OF OUR CONSTITUTION. THEY REFUSED TO ALLOW THE NEW DEALERS TO MAKE THE LAW OF RUSSIA THE LAW OF THE UNITED STATES. Judge Coxe's decision can be found in Volume 10 of the Federal Supplement at Pages 269 to 273 inclusive. Excerpts from the Circuit Court of Appeals opinion appeared in the August 25 and September 1, 1936, issues of United States Law Week.

In 1918 the Russian government "dissolved" two Russian corporations—the Moscow Fire Insurance Company and the Northern Insurance Company. These two companies had assets which are held by the Bank of New York & Trust Co. and the Manhattan Company, successor to the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co. The suits filed by the United States Government against the two New York banking concerns allege:

First—That the funds of the two insurance companies in the New York banks were "confiscated and appropriated" by the Russian state, and,

Second — That title to both funds was assigned to the United States by the Russian state on November 16, 1933, in a letter of Litvinoff, people's commissar for foreign affairs of the Union of Soviet Socialistic Republics, to the President of the United States.

United States Law Week, commenting on the Circuit Court of Appeals' refusal to allow the Federal government to confiscate bank accounts in New York under a decree of Red Russia, said:

"It was unsuccessfully urged by the United States government that its recognition of the Soviet government, acceptance of the assignment and institution of the suit DEMONSTRATE THAT THE PUBLIC POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES IS NOT OPPOSED TO ENFORCEMENT OF THE CONFISCATORY DECREE."

The significant thing is not merely that the Roosevelt administration is trying to act as a property confiscator for Red Russia, but that OUR GOVERNMENT IS IN COURT URGING THAT CONFISCATION OF PRIVATE PROPERTY IS NOT CONTRARY TO THE PUBLIC POLICY OF THE UNITED STATES. ANY ADMINISTRATION WHICH CAN CONFISCATE PROPERTY FOR RUSSIA OR ANY OTHER FOREIGN COUNTRY CAN CONFISCATE YOUR HOME OR YOUR FARM OR YOUR BUSINESS OR YOUR BANK ACCOUNT FOR ITS OWN PURPOSES.
